CENTRALIAN

Central Dauphin High School
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania
Volume XXXI

Foreword

Amidst the flurry and whirlwind of our fast-paced world of computers and the space age, we often hurry by and overlook our values and customs. Therefore, the staff of the 1986 Centralian has chosen for this year's theme, Traditions. C.D. traditions are the attitudes, beliefs, and customs which have been handed down to us by students of the past. These values bind us together; they are valued bonds which make working toward and facing tomorrow more meaningful.

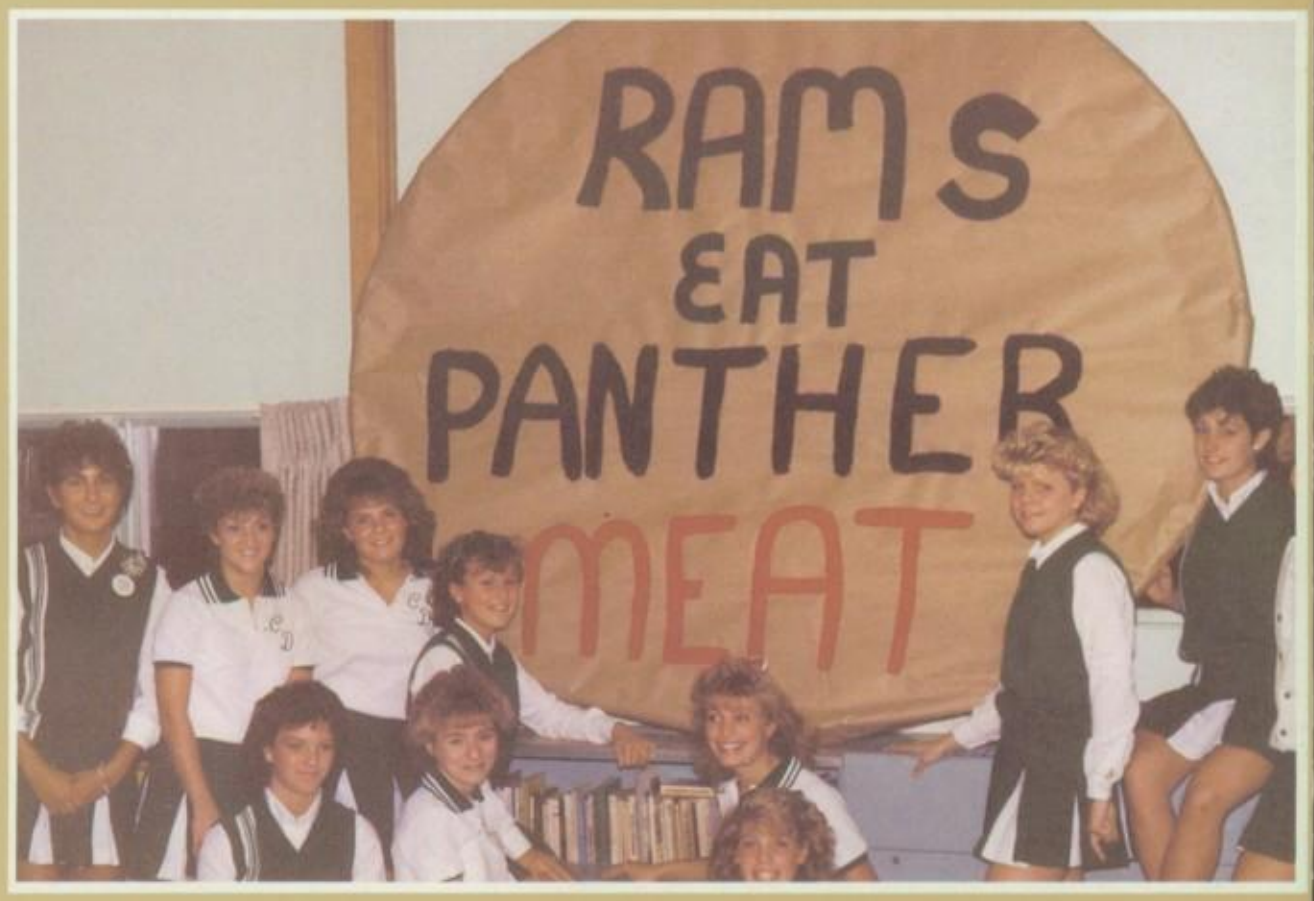
Tradition is school spirit — A pep rally, the rivalry between the Rams and the Panthers, crowning a new Homecoming Queen, and supporting "Legs '85"

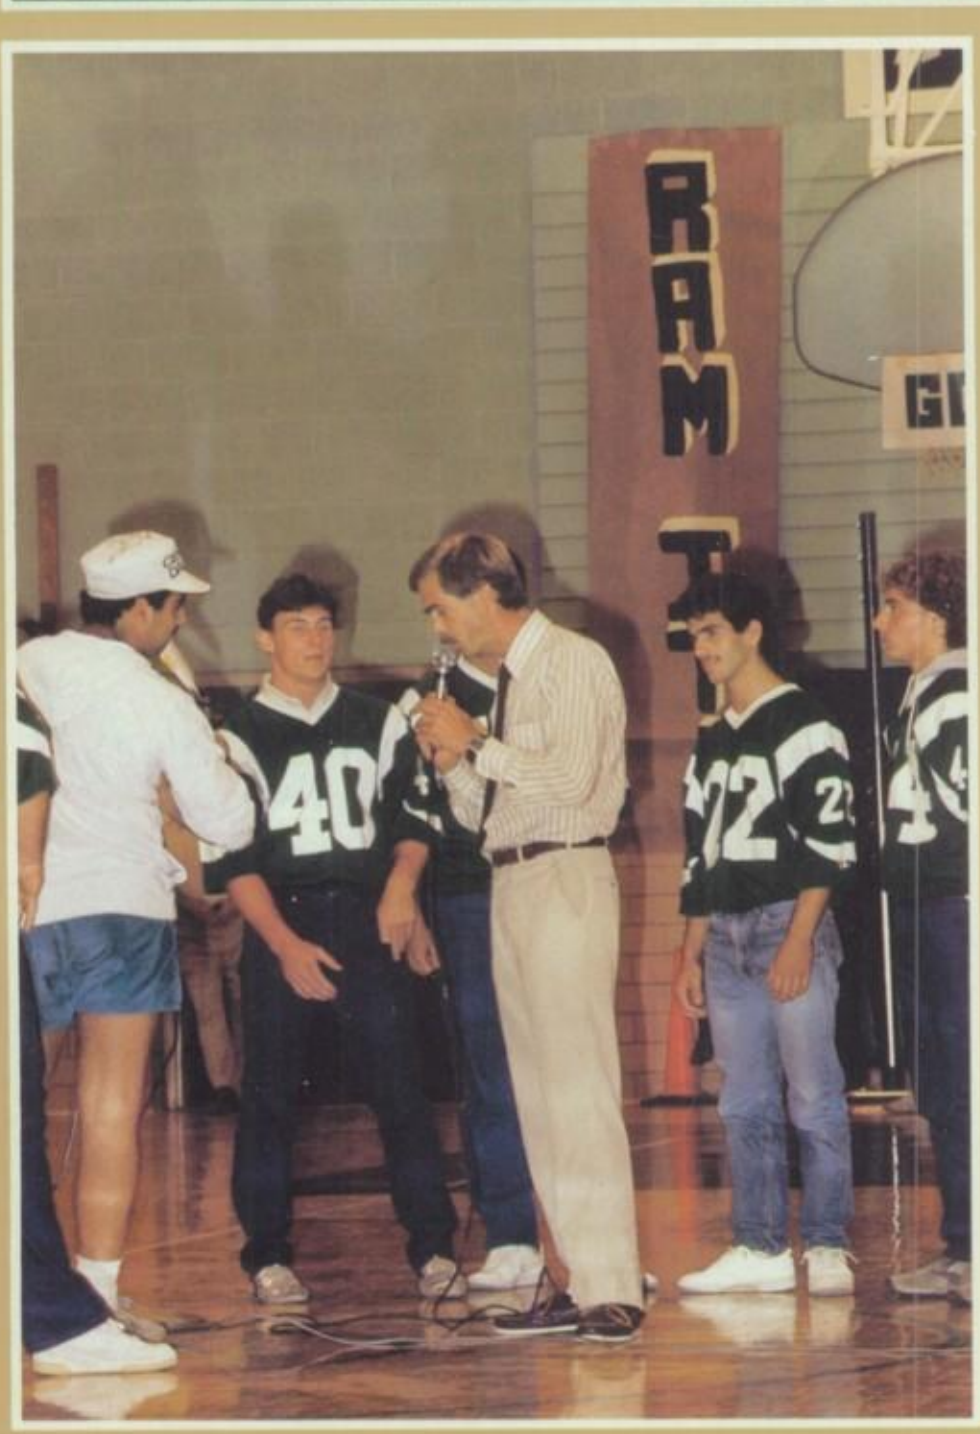
A beaming Elizabeth Link begins her reign as CD's Homecoming Queen. Elizabeth was crowned at the CD-Steel High game on October 11, 1985.

A muscle-bound Mr. Fox awes everyone with his physique. Mr. Fox went on to win the male faculty Legs title.

The cheerleaders show they're hungry for victory before the CD-East game. The Rams ate Panther meat that night as they defeated East High 7-3.



A high-spirited Wendall Ritchie believes that green brings out the most in a man.



Legs '85 winners Diane Watson, Mrs. Herigan, and Stu Singer reveal their secrets for success. These "bodacious" legs won the approval of both the student body and a panel of celebrity judges.

Emcee Ron Giovanniello, Charlie Keyes, Tony Bown, and Mike Murphy anxiously await Coach Holbrook's inspirational pep talk before the East game.

Tradition is striving for academic and athletic excellence, knowing that in victory or defeat loyal friends stand by us

After an exciting volleyball game Diane Zeiders shows that she'll even sacrifice blood to win.

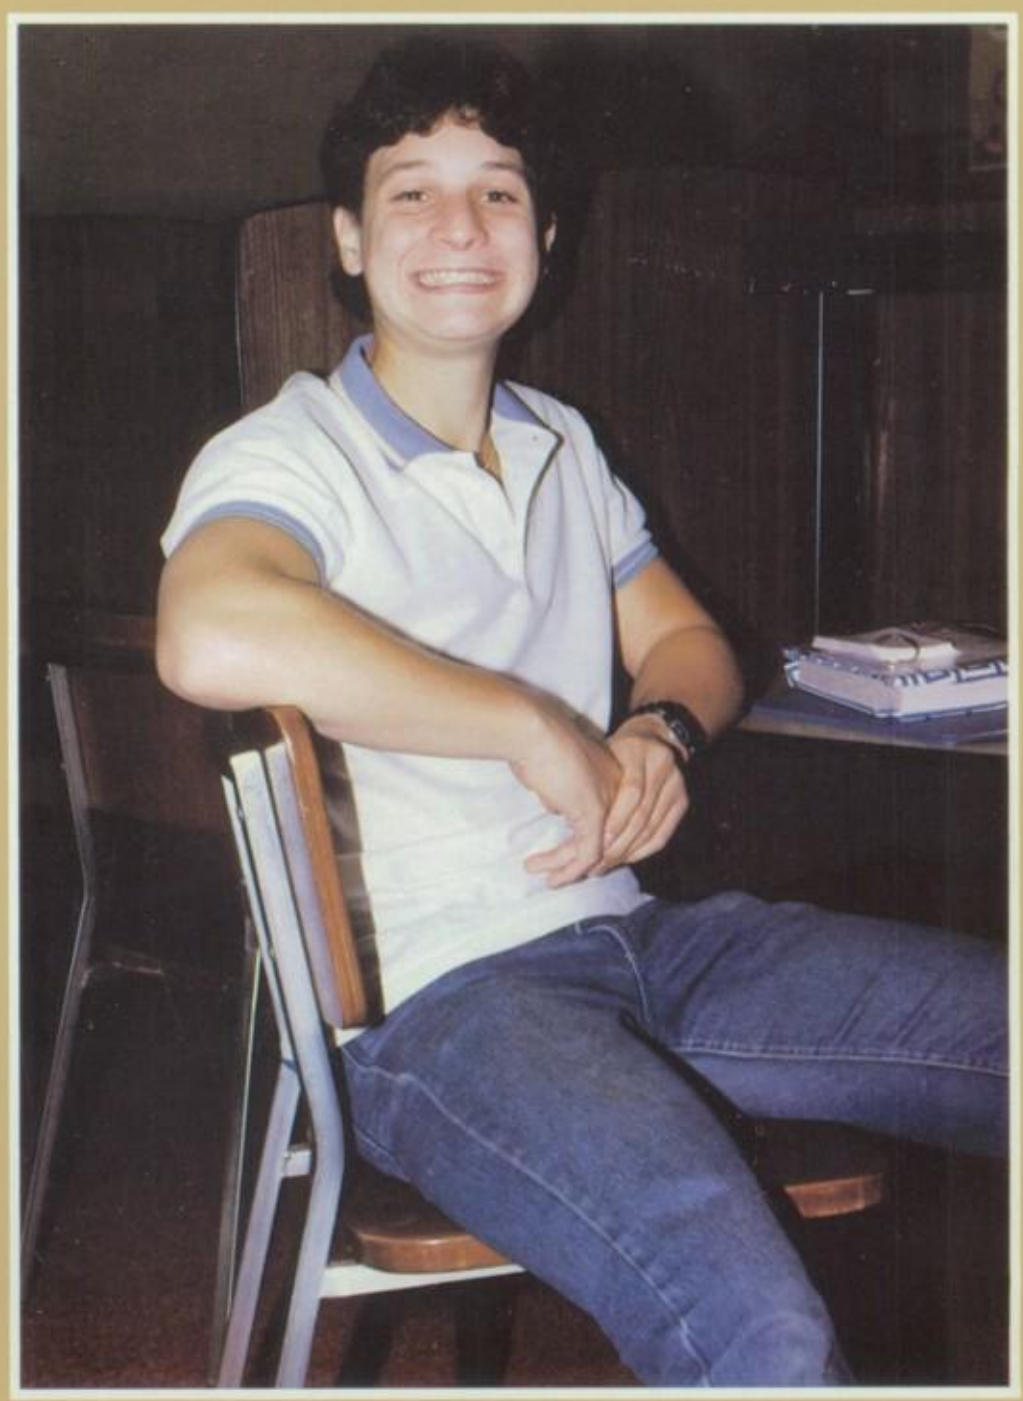
Showing the Trojans who's boss, Danny Oates goes for the header against rival Hershey. The Rams won the Division I game, 1-0.

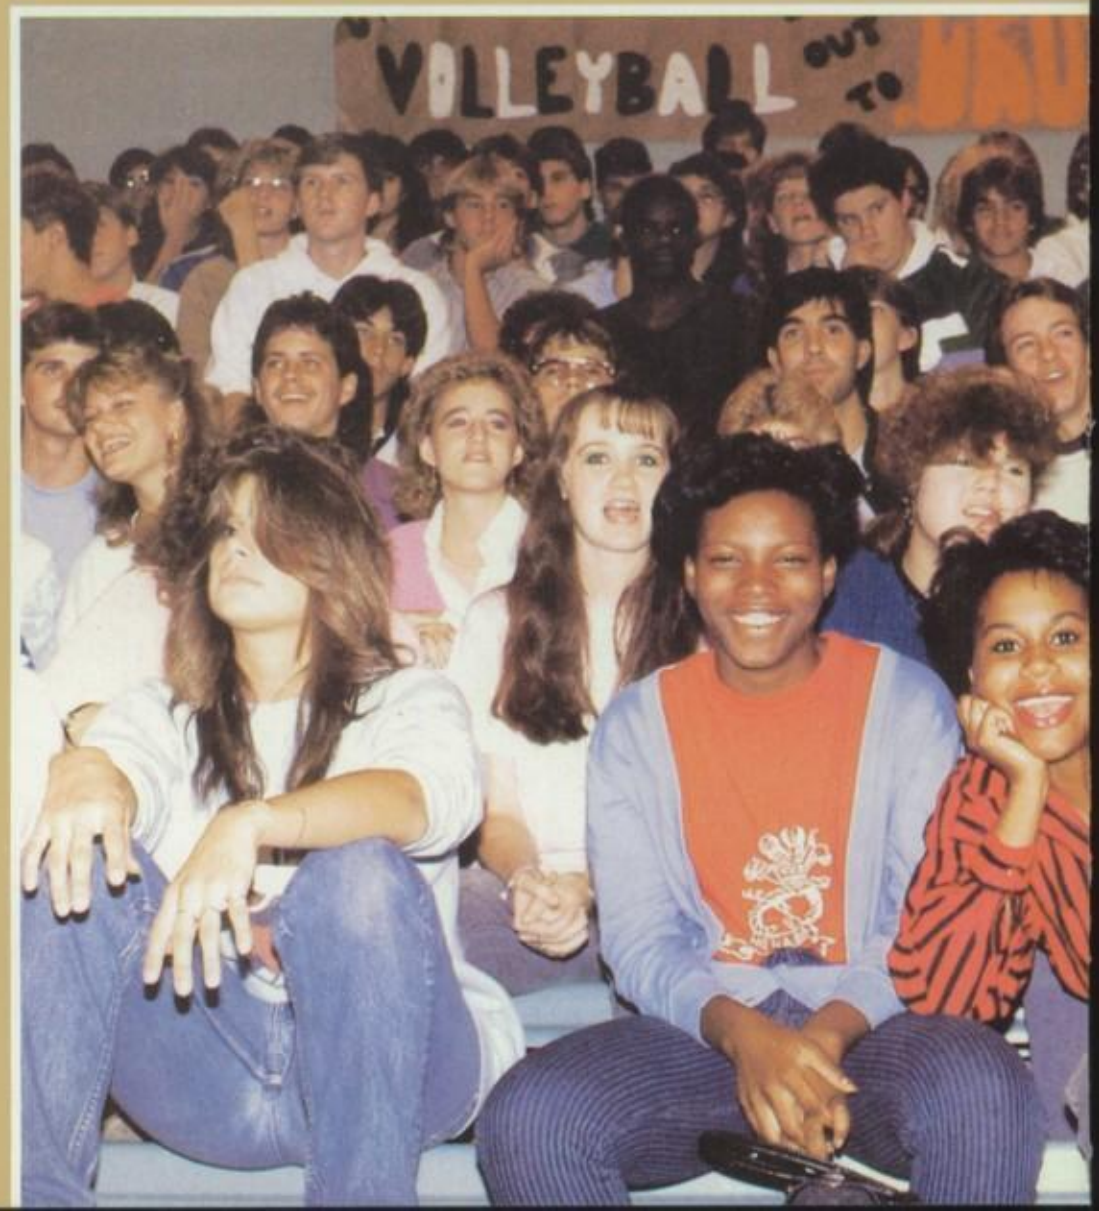
A first day tradition is continued as sophomores fill out an endless number of forms to prepare for the new school year.

Rams tennis team members Becky Royles, Michelle Miller, Michelle Sebastian, and Dawn Shearer take a breather after a hot match and dream about playing at Wimbledon.

Band members Tammy Carson, Sue Westenberger, Ray Caperoon, Chris Flotta, Dan Hertzog, and Rob Shaffer gain strength for their next competition.

Tradition is participating in extra-curricular activities. It is "senioritis," the prom, and graduation.

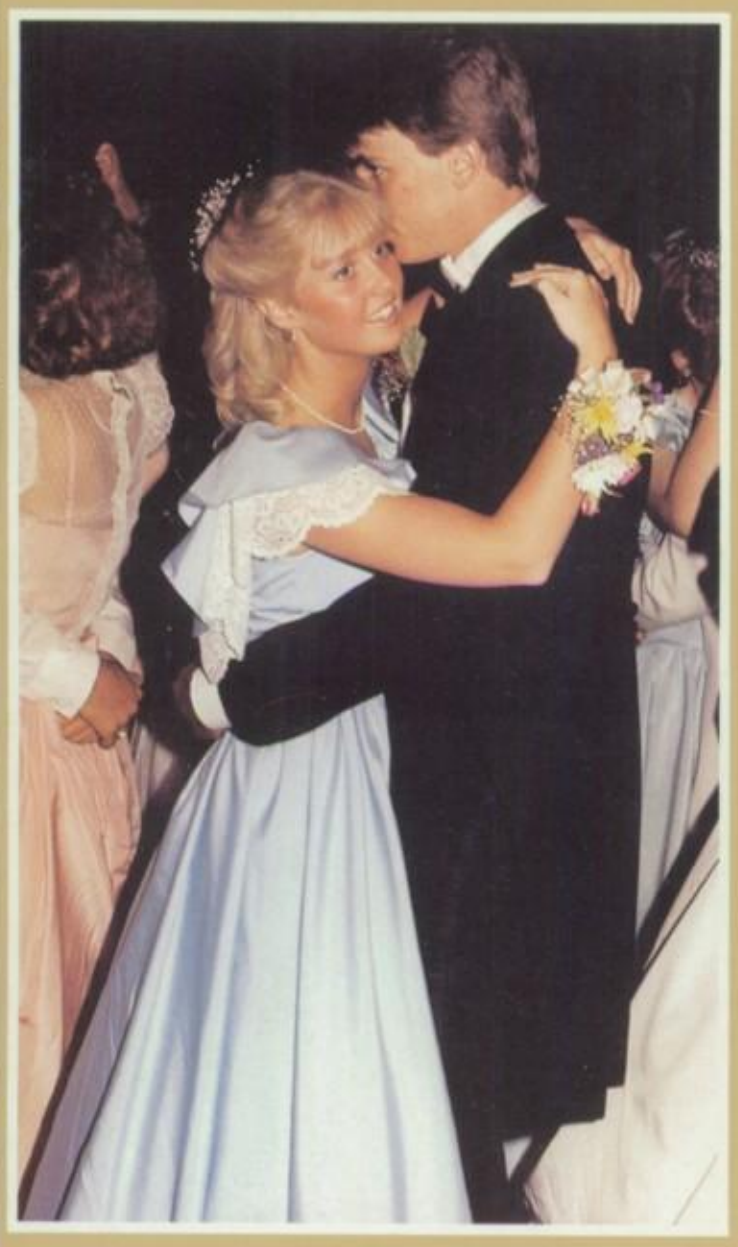




When it comes to writing research papers, "senioritis" hits all of us . . . even juniors like Scott Woolf.

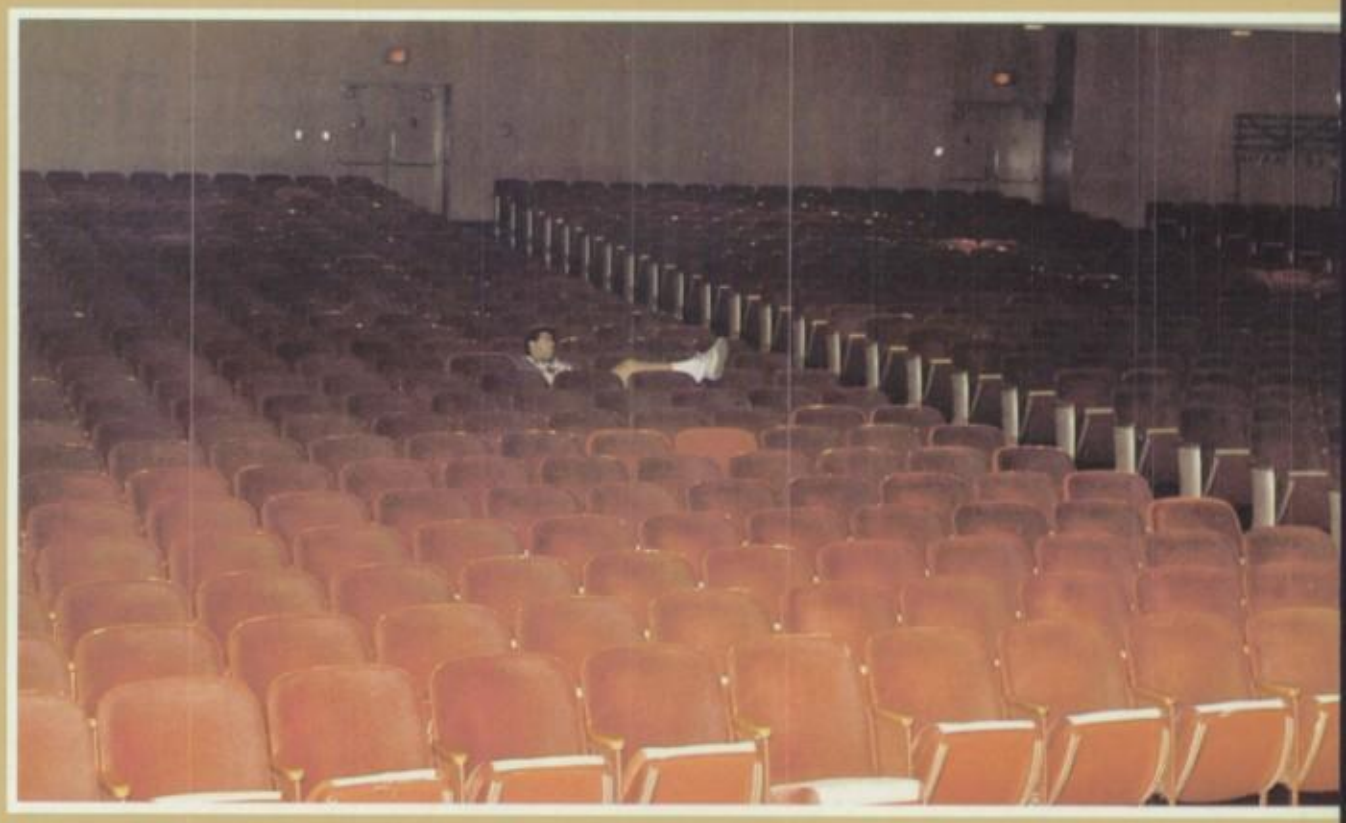
In a fight against time, juniors Dan Hertzog and Mike Anderson race with endurance.

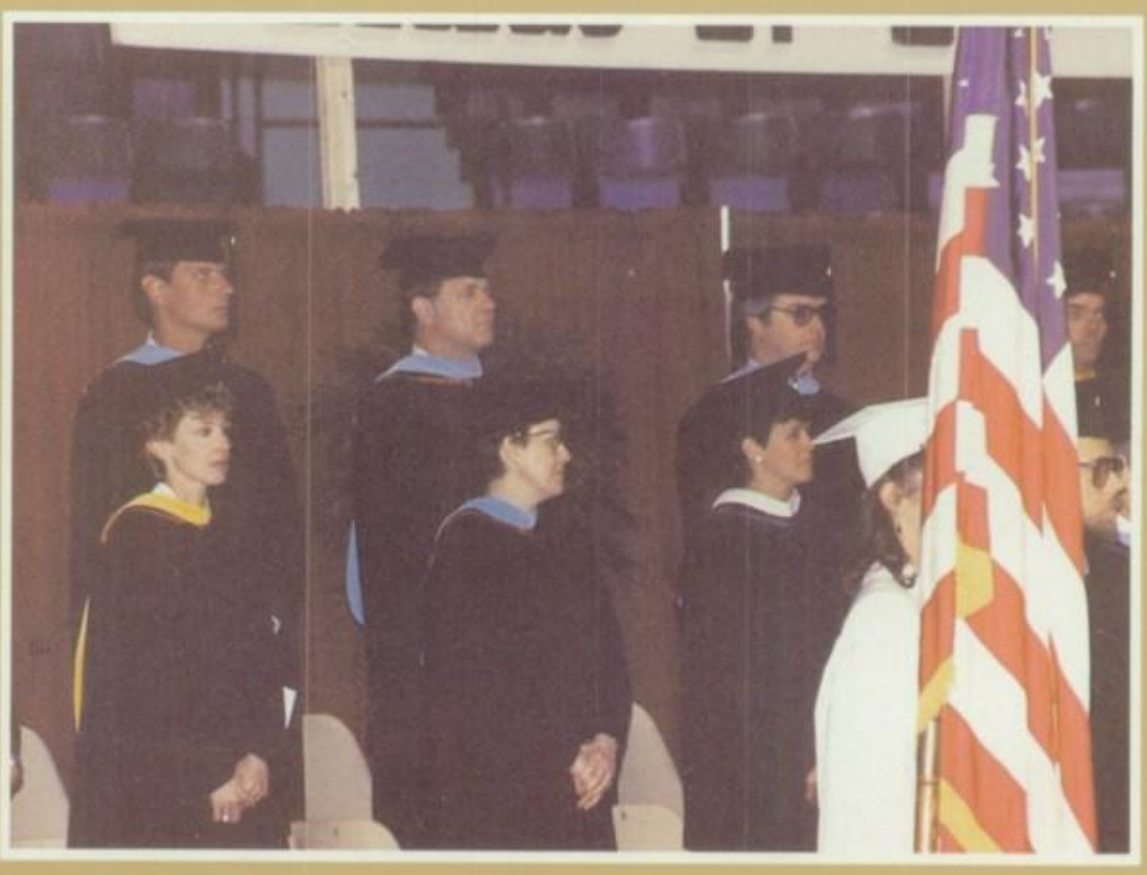
Caught in the spirit of the fall pep rally, juniors Saundra Harvey and Kathy Waters take a moment to smile for the photographer.



Dancing the night away, Marcey Baughman and Bob Keller dream to the music of "Saturday" at the Prom.

Oh! Oh! After an assembly Ron Giovanniello is caught suffering from "senioritis" and sleeps while everyone else has returned to a full day of classes.





A dedicated faculty participates in graduation exercises.

In Memoriam

Brent O'Connell
1967-1984

How do you say
Goodbye
To someone you've shared so much with . . .
To someone who brought
so much joy and fulfillment
How do you say
Goodbye
And let go of that special friendship
you held so close to you . . .
I don't think we can ever
really say goodbye
Anymore than we can say
Goodbye to our hearts . . .
We will survive but
We will never forget you . . .
There are no words to express
The loss we have shared over the past couple years, or the sorrow we have felt. Your memory will remain
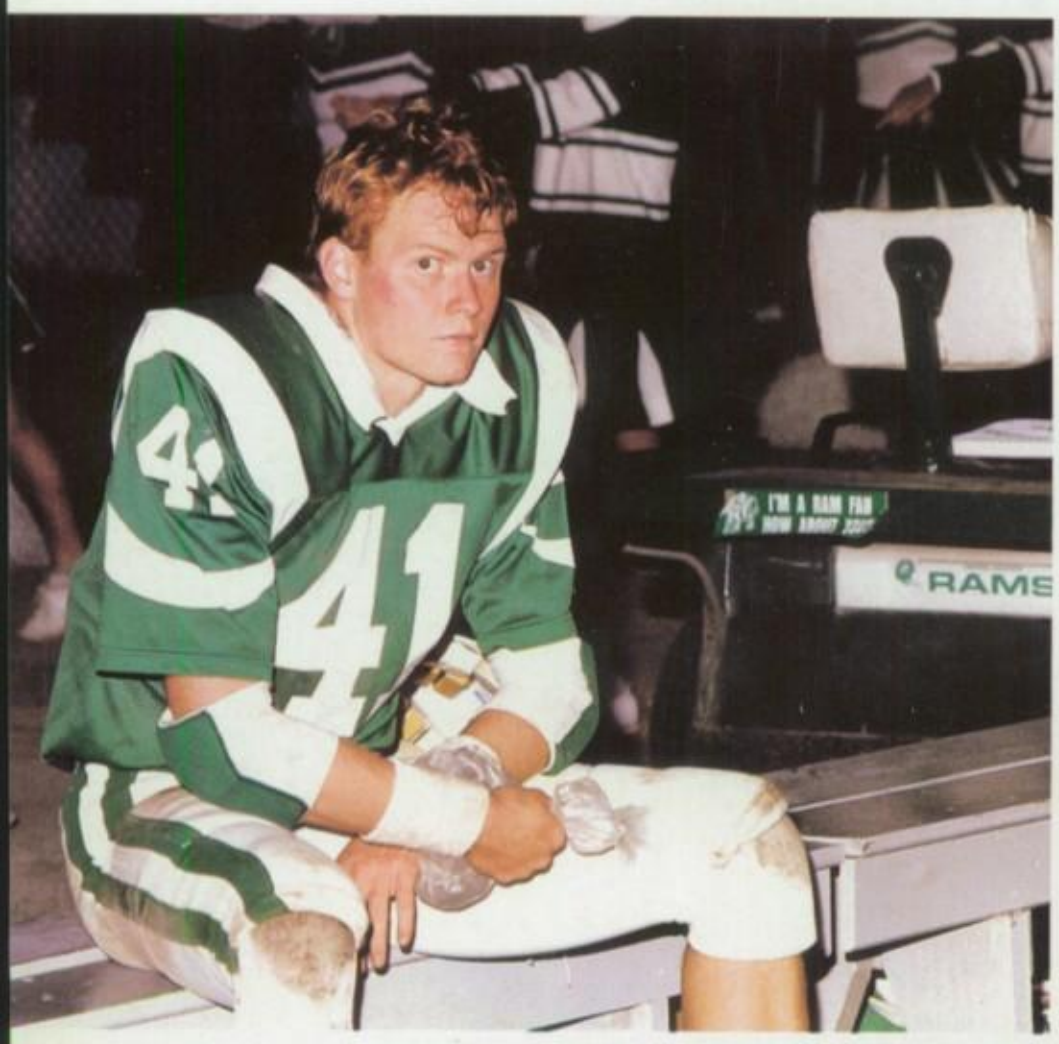
In our hearts forever.

Smile . . .



Senior Ann Reisser smiles for the homecoming crowd at the C.D.-Steel High game. Ann's escort was Dave Oswandel.

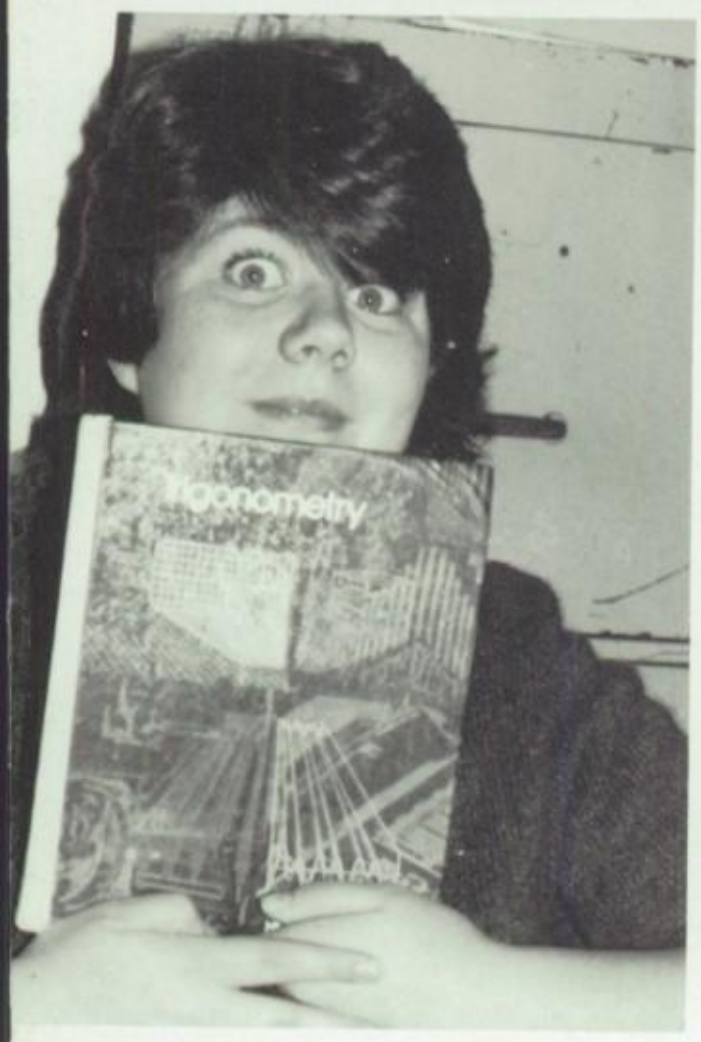
Senior punter Tom Hammond doesn't appear to have much to smile about as he watches his teammates from the sidelines. The Rams lost to Cedar Cliff 20-0

Majorette Michelle Reckner shows her school spirit with a smile and a victory cry at a Rams' football game.

You're on Candid Camera!

Birthday greetings have given Jen Crissman something to smile about. Decorating friends' lockers for birthdays is a long-time CD tradition.

Christy Loney and Amy Balsbaugh, CD's answer to Brooke Shields and Christie Brinkley, show us their cover girl smiles.



sy Anderson shows the entire rld how happy she is when she ks about her favorite class.

Keeping a level head, Tom Plasic flashes his "awl"-American smile.

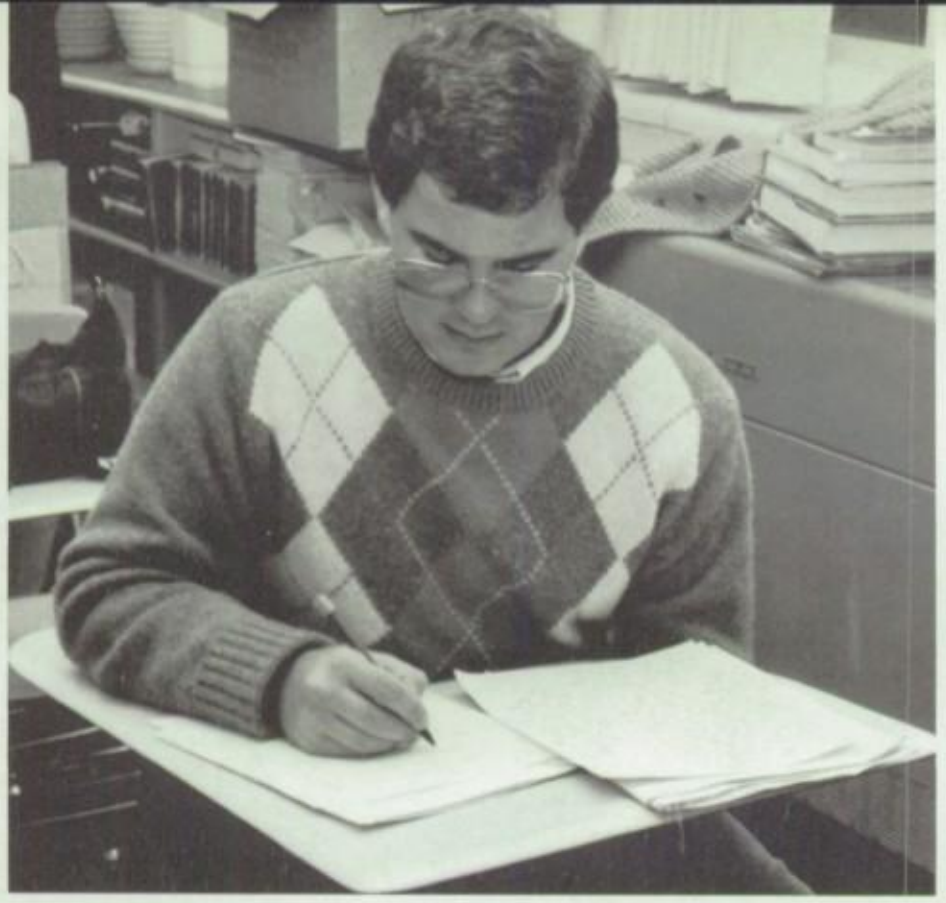
SENIOR CLASS COUNCIL. Row 1: A. Vogel, J. Gustafson, S. Parmer, J. Crissman, M. Bright. Row 2: J. Rice, B. Epstein, J. Buskey, L. Wright, A. Brightbill, K. Grubb, C. Jones. Row 3: M. Baughman, T. Thompson, M. Anderson, D. Williams, I. Halkias, C. Weisinger.



Hard at work again, Keith Grubb spends another morning in homeroom preparing for a test.

Karen Williams shows her little brother the ropes of cheerleading.

Hard at work in the shop, senior Ken Peck prepares his next project.

"That's what friends are for." Cathy Weisinger and Sandy McNeily enjoy a football game and a cup of hot chocolate.

Running late again, Amy Carl is relieved to know she can still grab a bite to eat from the Junior Class doughnut sale.

While concentrating intently, Shelley Stuckey tries to decide if the black wire should be attached to the white wire or the red wire.

Senior Michelle Luce arm wrestles with Drew Smith to see who picks up the tab.

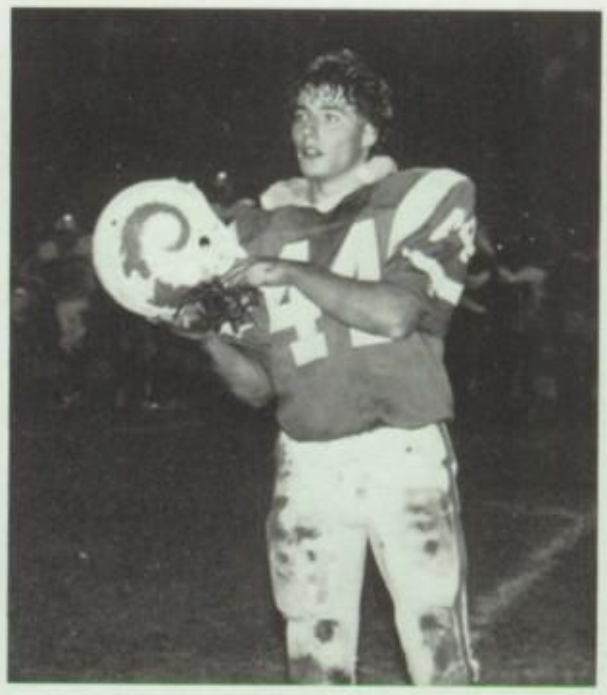
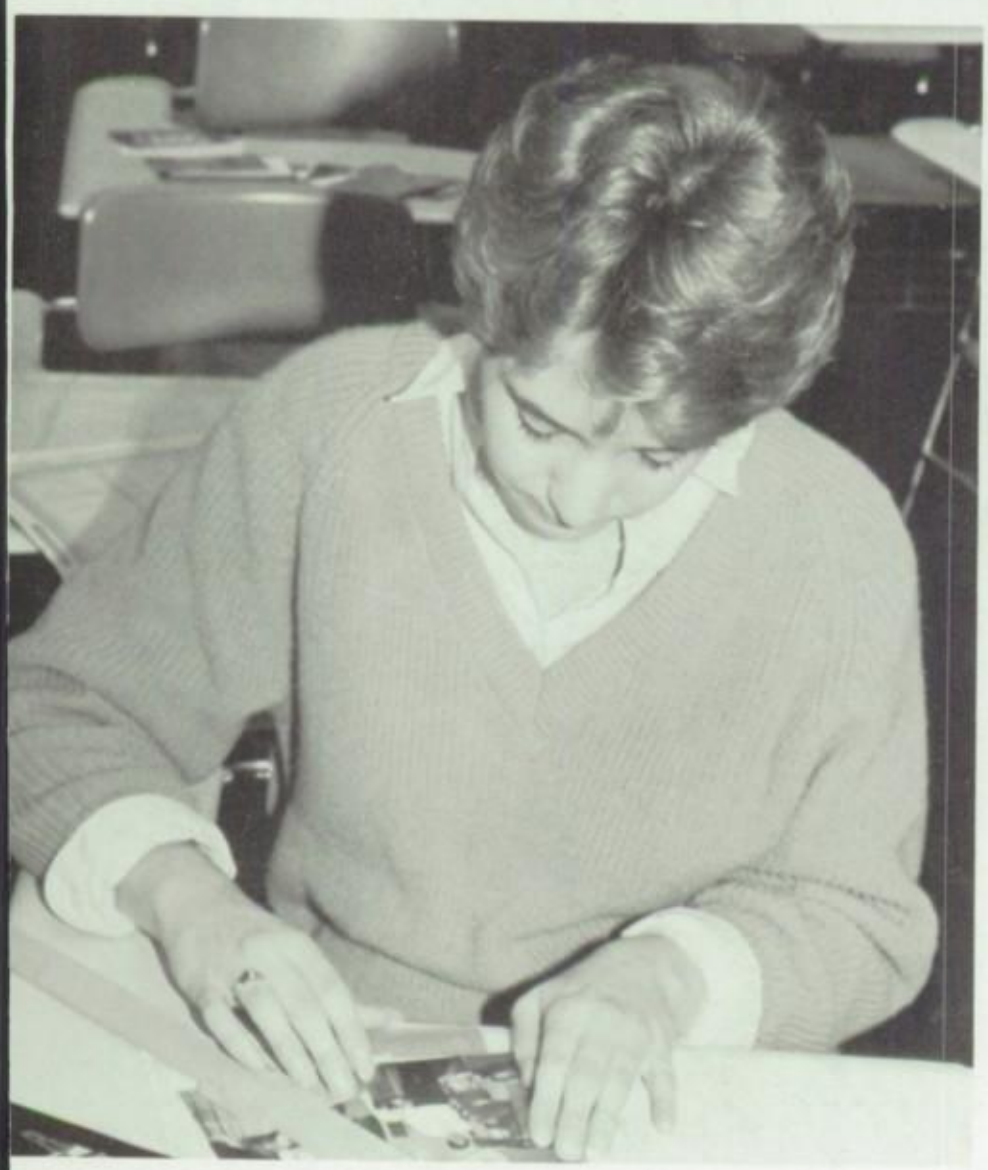
Looking as if they are spending an "un"-eventful evening, Karyn Gresham, Denny Keen, and Matt Gonder share a table at the Prom.

John Maxwell and Maria Moran share the spotlight in "The Apple Tree."





On the first day of school the yearbook homeroom discusses plans for the upcoming year.

Music at a Saturday night dance gets the Parmer sisters, Sue and Lisa, rockin'.

After hours, Student Life editor Michelle Bright spends another late evening session devoted to the yearbook.

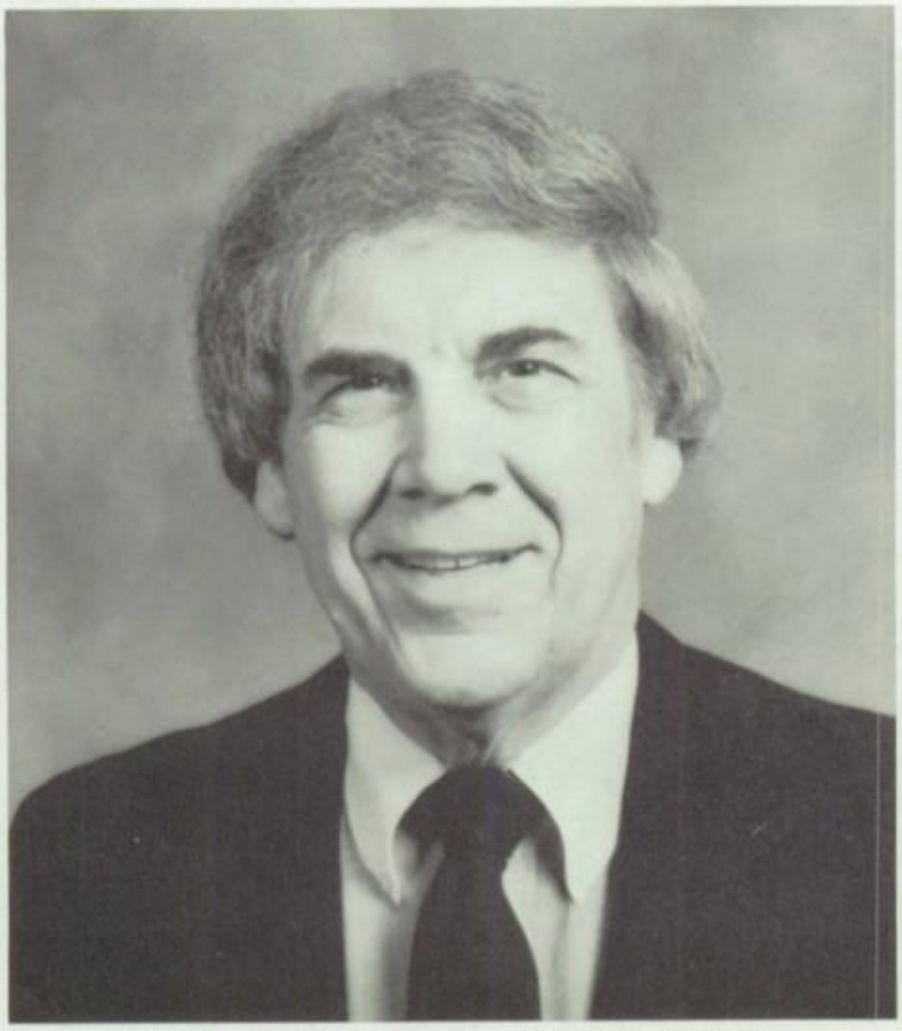
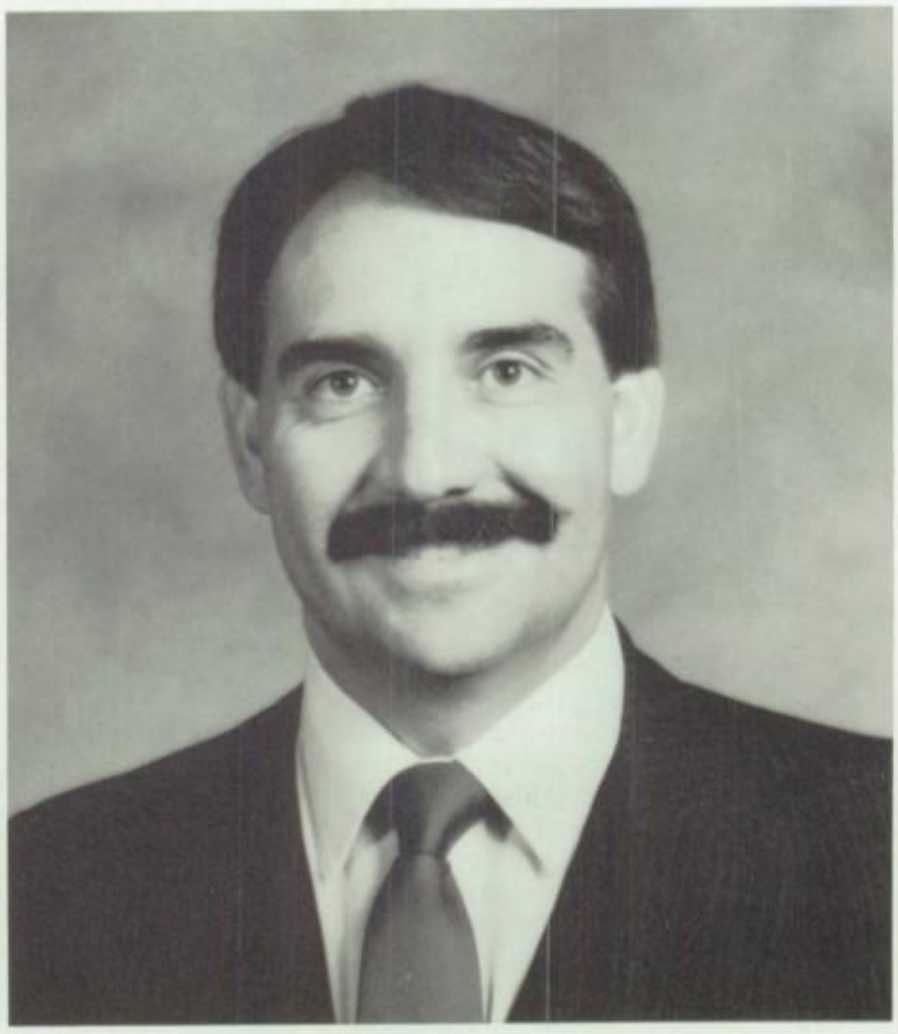
From the Principal's Desk...

A yearbook is more than printed pages, clever sayings, and memorable photographs; it is, in a very real sense, a record of memories — your memories — that you hold both individually and in common as students of Central Dauphin. It is my sincere hope that these memories have been pleasant ones that you will cherish in future years. I hope that your days here at C.D. have been enjoyable as well as filled with learning and growth. You have received an education that will serve you well, and the memories preserved within these pages will serve you in those quiet moments when you turn your thoughts back to your days spent with us. On behalf of the faculty and administration, I wish you health, happiness, and success throughout your lives.



Walter L. C. Bouve, Assistant Principal



Kenneth R. Kitch, Assistant Principal

Around the world . . .

There is a wide range of social studies courses offered at CD: Sociology, Contemporary Affairs, U.S. History, World Cultures, Western Civ., P.O.D., and for the daring few, Advanced U.S. and Advanced European.

No matter what the subject, though, the social studies faculty does an excellent job. Their courses teach students about all parts of the world.

According to Mr. Van Saun, "World Cultures is necessary for students to understand their position in the world." Mr. Markle states, "It is imperative that students have an understanding of how other people live."

Mr. Fox believes that social studies makes students better and more interesting people because they are able to carry on an intelligent conversation about history and things in general.

Mr. Moyer believes that the past plays an important role in our future. "We have to be able to learn from the mistakes of the past because history repeats itself."

The social studies teachers all have a real interest in their subjects. They also like watching their students learn. They hope that their students will learn to write better (the hidden purpose of film reviews and essay questions). Mr. Van Saun would like his students to learn objectivity.

So whether students are learning about the U.S. in P.O.D., or learning more about India, China, Africa, or Europe, they are all gaining valuable knowledge about the world we live in — the world around us.

Mr. Van Saun's sophomore homeroom experienced "culture shock" on the first day of school.

Famous for his bad jokes, Mr. Moyer seems to remember a funny anecdote about the Holy Roman Empire.

Known for his notorious study guides, Mr. Markle searches for another obscure term for his students to define.

A novel approach . . .

CD's English department plays a key role in the preparation of students for life after graduation. The well-planned English program gives students a firm background in both writing and literature.

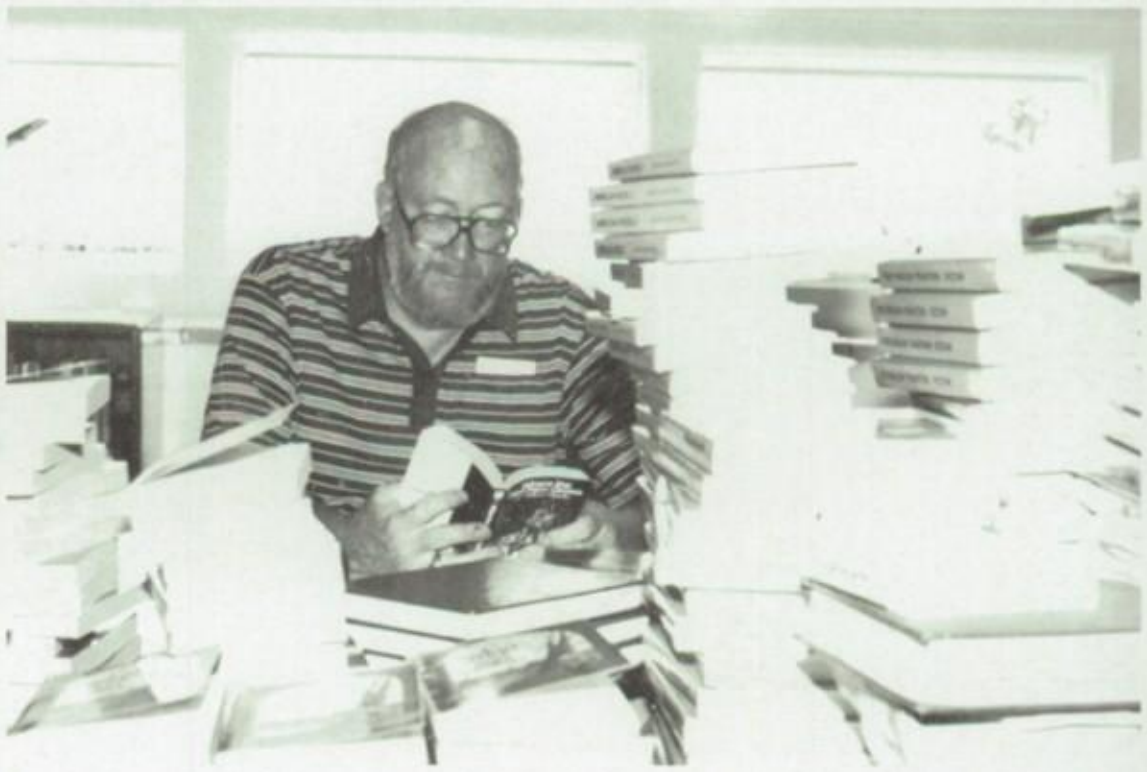
Those dreaded essays and research papers are not really a form of gruesome torture developed by English teachers — they actually help students in the long run by teaching them to organize their thoughts.

Mr. Barton would like his students to learn to effectively express themselves in their writing and in their speech. "Effective communication is needed in all facets of life." Mr. Smithers agrees. "Students need the abililty to communicate — it makes them think." Says Mrs. Hardy, "English skills are the basis of communication."

The study of literature is another important aspect of English courses. In grades ten through twelve students gain knowledge of both American and English literature. Students in Advanced English read the classics, like Sophocles and Tolstoy.

Short stories, novels, plays, and poetry are all forms of literature studied. This gives students a broad sampling of different types, so there is always something for everyone.

A common bond between all of the English teachers here at Central Dauphin is their students. According to Mrs. Hardy, "I would like my students to develop self-discipline as well as self-reliance, both of which are essential to leading productive lives." Students are the primary concern of all of the teachers, and they all enjoy working with their classes. But most of all, the teachers are always there and willing to help.



Students, take heart. Even teachers like Mr. Ferguson are swamped with books on the first day of school.

While keeping the bumper sticker industry in business, Mr. Smithers communicates media messages to his students.

Medieval literature, Shakespeare and Shaw — Mrs. Hardy shares the true excitement of English literature with her students.

Advanced English instructor Mr. Barton has found "something rotten" in this Hamlet critique.

In search of . . .

Science courses at CD are more popular than ever due to the new state graduation requirements, but the science teachers are taking it all in stride.

The following science courses are offered at CD: Advanced Biology, Advanced Chemistry, Biology, Chemistry, Physics, and Astronomy/Geology. This is a science department to be proud of.

Science teachers seem to have two things in common — a genuine interest in their subjects and a thorough enjoyment of their students. According to Mr. Martin, what he likes the most about Chemistry is having fun with the experiments.

Mr. Foley likes the interaction with his Chemistry students. "Chemistry is something that students can apply to their everyday lives. Also, there are some excellent jobs in science fields."

"Biology," says Mr. Wilde, "helps students to understand the interrelationship of all things — how we as humans relate to our environments."

Mr. Dively would like his Physics students to learn more than just Physics. "It's important that students learn how to reason — to examine problems and solve them step by step."

Science courses give students the additional opportunity to learn in the laboratory. They have the chance to test theories and discover for themselves. Lab periods are often the most interesting, and they help to make science the fascinating subject it is.

During Advanced Biology class Mr. Border, Kristi Clemens, and Jerry Barton get a rise out of doing yeast experiments.

During physics lab Mr. Dively and his class all "pull" together.

For a "periodic" moment Mr. Foley assists junior Jill Strohecker with a chemistry experiment.

Teachers are people, too!!!

As difficult as it may be to believe, there is life after 3:30 for CD's faculty. Contrary to popular belief, teachers do not spend all of the time from 3:30 p.m. to 8:30 a.m. correcting tests and grading papers — they do have lives like the rest of us.

Some teachers just like to relax in their spare time. Mrs. Uhazie and Mrs. Farrell like Penn State football games; whereas Mr. Martin likes Notre Dame football. When Mr. Fox is not pursuing his career as an armchair athlete, he likes to read Stephen King and Agatha Christie.

Faculty outdoorsmen include Mr. Smithers, Mr. Martin, Mr. Filepas, Mr. Chopp, and Mr. Kreamer, who enjoy fishing as well as hunting.

Teachers active in local government include Mr. Barton and Mrs. Herigan, auditors for West Hanover Township; Mr. Steinmeier, township supervisor for West Hanover; Mr. Smithers, committee person for Lower Paxton Township. Both Mr. Cassell and Mr. Ferguson are members of the Lower Dauphin School Board.

On the sports scene, Mr. Phillippy likes tennis, especially defeating Mr. Kreamer. Mr. Davis and Mr. Deitz are runners. Mr. Deitz has run in the New York City Marathon several times. Mrs. Jongsma and her husband like cross country and downhill skiing, and sailing their thirty foot sloop. Mr. Filepas, another sea-faring teacher, likes to sail his eight meter sloop Impulse.

Some faculty members are involved in activities that are off the beaten trail. Faculty dancers include Mrs. McCune, who likes aerobics, and Mrs. McAllister and her husband, who like to squaredance. Mr. Fox tries to convince people that he really is over twenty-five years old. Mrs. Herigan and Mrs. Hardy are writing a soap opera script dramatizing life as high school teachers. Mr. Holbrook is an avid collector of baseball cards, and Mrs. Osman is a partner in a craft business.

It's easy to see that teachers are real people just like everyone else. So the next time that your tests are not done the next day, or your papers are not graded for weeks, just remember that school is not the only part of their lives either.

Mrs. Osman displays her loom. Weaving is just one of the many crafts and hobbies she enjoys.

CD's politicians, Mr. Steinmeier, Mr. Ferguson, Mr. Smithers, and Mr. Barton, meet with Representative Joseph Manmiller. Rep. Manmiller was a teacher before entering politics full-time.

Mr. Sheeler proudly displays one of his wild trophies. This picture was taken in his pre-beard days.

It all adds up . . .

There is a wide range of math courses available to students at CD. Geometry, Basic Algebra, Algebra II, Trigonometry, Pre-Calculus, and Calculus are all offered; in addition there are several computer courses available.

Math teachers have a difficult job because students often enter their classes with the mistaken idea that they will never understand math. One of the best parts of teaching for Mrs. McAllister is watching students learn things that they never thought they would understand.

Algebra II is one of the most important courses a student can take at CD It helps students gain insight and problem-solving ability.

Calculus is the only advanced math course offered at CD, but it is, nevertheless, a very important one for college bound seniors. According to Mr. Weikert, "Calculus ties together all high school math courses, and it prepares students for college math courses."

Geometry is a course that teaches students logic and how to think things through. By using theorems, students get a chance to learn how to systematically prove something. Other concepts learned are important for Algebra.

The computer courses at CD are only a few years old, and these ever-expanding courses are still popular. There are many computers available for student use. Students learn how to create their own programs in the BASIC language.

Math courses are an important part of everyone's high school years because they provide skills useful not only in technological fields but also in daily life. CD's math teachers do an excellent job of teaching their subjects and making them interesting.

Mr. Kreamer finds wrestling with a computer a bit more difficult than coaching wrestling.

Always helpful, Mrs. McAllister explains the difference between sine and cosine to Trig student, Sue Parmer.

After a grueling day of conducting class and challenging students, Mr. Thorn shows us that he stil looks "maahvelous."

Foreign languages . . .

Though many students have not yet mastered the English language, they have plunged into the world of foreign languages. Four different languages are offered at CD: Latin, French, Spanish and German.

Foreign languages are an important part of student schedules at CD. Communication is the key to foreign languages. Studying a language is a progressive experience — the learning never ends. Many students study for one or two years at the high school level; however, a longer period is necessary for mastery. Some students even take five years of Latin or French.

According to the language teachers, there are many benefits in knowing another language. The main reason is better employment. The import/export business, cooperative space programs, fashion and wine industries, corporate businesses, health services, and law are a few areas where a foreign language is a definite plus.

The language department has never agreed which language is the best because each one has its own uses. Mrs. Naugle and Mrs. Neikens feel that Spanish is important because it is the second most spoken language in the U.S. According to Mrs. Vishnesky, "French has long been recognized as the language of law." She also points out that German is the language of science, and Japanese is the language of world trade.

So whether it be a Latin Festival, Spanish Fiesta, language lab, or Language Week, students experience a great variety of foreign culture right here at C.D.

CD's "Lady of Spain," Senora Neikens, seems delighted when she discovers that she's being photographed for the yearbook.

A beaming Madame Vishnesky says, "Cheese."

Senora Naugle shows Vince Santopietro all the hot spots in Spain for fiestas, pinatas, and tacos.

Mr. Vishnesky and Mr. Kitch work overtime to help Student Council collect admission to a dance after a Friday night ballgame.

Mr. Sanderson supports the junior class doughnut sale and treats the Social Studies Department to morning goodies.

Support staffs . . .

The secretarial staffs are an important part of everyday life at CD.

Without the secretaries in the office, who would take care of attendance and early dismissals? Without them there would be no daily bulletin, and the principals would have a hard time keeping up with their work.

In the guidance office Miss Hoover takes care of all of those senior transcripts for college applications. Along with her other clerical duties, she helps students to find forms and applications, and she helps put together the "Ram-a-round."

The secretaries in the library deal with all of the paperwork necessary for the library to function smoothly. Overall, the secretaries keep CD on the move.

THE MAIN OFFICE SECRETARIES. Mrs. Lehman, Mrs. Van Saun, and Mrs. Shovlin, and Mrs. Witchey (missing).

Miss Hoover, Guidance Office Secretary

Mr. Jostenski with the Library Secretaries: Mrs. Cassell and Mrs. Breon

CD's dedicated Special Services staffs work hard to provide the necessities for life at CD.

The Custodian staff works all year long to keep CD's physical plant in good repair. In the winter they try to keep everyone warm inside, and in the spring they make CD look nice outside with new paint and lawn care.

The cafeteria staff provides students with a hot lunch every day of the year. They begin to prepare lunch before most students even get to school. They also help provide refreshments for evening activities at CD.

Juniors Raise Funds to Finance Prom

JUNIOR CLASS COUNCIL: Row One: K. Powley, D. Amerhein, M. Van Natta, J. Deibler, K. Semic, S. Wampler, M. Hughes, K. Shepley. Row Two: J. Davenport, B. Novosat, H. Price, K. Toth, R. Smith, T. Cole, M. Christmas, A. Solinski, B. Mullen, L. Burkhardt, B. Swanger, C. Weaver, K. Snyder. Row Three: E. Preputnick, R. Mahady, M. Danowitz, K. Simon, D. Reardon, J. Gurski, A. Balsbaugh, M. Hyams.

The Junior Class Council is very active in the life of the student body. Their purpose is to run an effective student government organization. Under the guidance of class advisor, William Moyer, the Junior Class Council was responsible for organizing various social activities such as dances, but most importantly, the Prom. The Prom was held on May 10 at the Penn Harris Motor Lodge. The Council also sponsored bi-weekly doughnut sales and a sub sale. Mr. Moyer was pleased with the year's success.

The President of the Council was Amy Solinski, who met with the School Board once a month, presided at all meetings, and made final decisions about activities. Mike Danowitz, class Vice-President, said "It is a lot of fun working with people and having the opportunity to be a big part of our class."

Throughout the year the Council provided a link between the student body and the adminstration

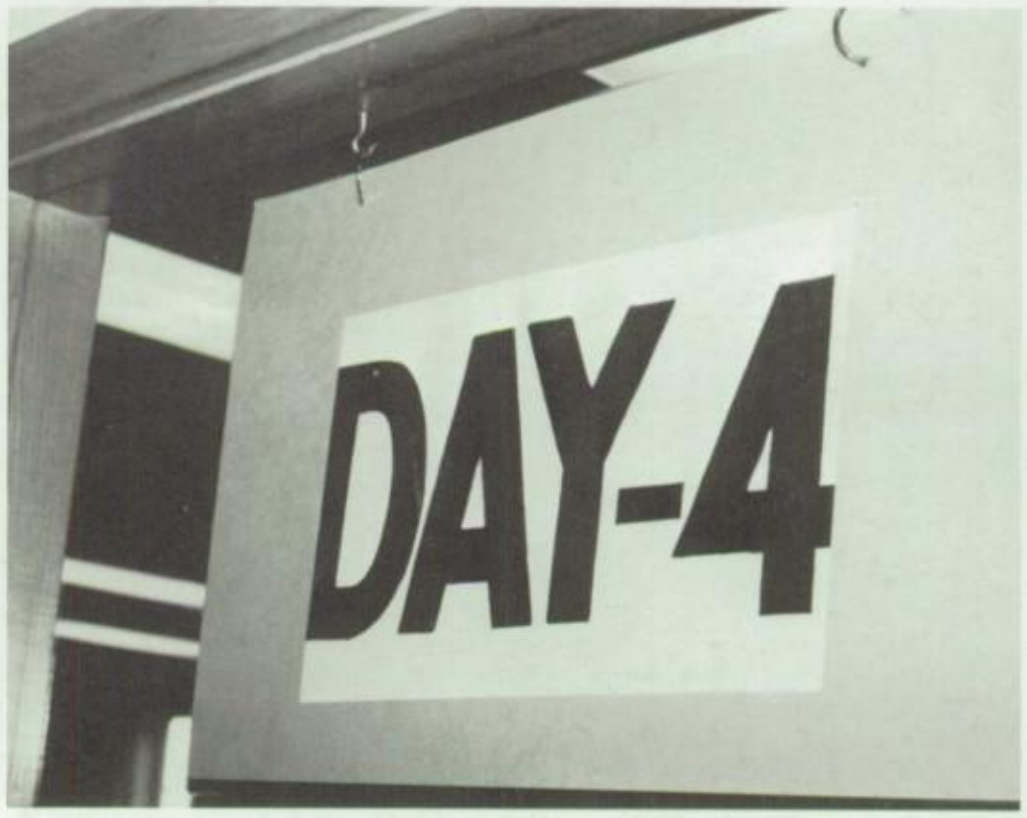
Cycle Days Have Students Going in Circles

"Today is Monday. Then again, maybe it's not. How about Tuesday? Let's see . . . It was Day 4 a week and a half ago . . . which makes last Friday a Wednesday . . . times 3 + 7 = . . . No, no, no!"

"Hey, look at that. We have off next Monday for teachers' in-service day. Oh no! That means Tuesday is Monday is Day 3. So what day is Wednesday? When is Day 1? Do I have a physics lab today? These days off mess up my schedule. I was just getting the hang of this . . ."

As if school weren't confusing enough, students had a new problem to face this year — Cycle Days. This recent attempt at driving students crazy was instituted by our principals. Actually this unique system was put into effect because throughout the school year we would have missed eleven Mondays, five Fridays, and two Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays. Subjects meeting less than five times a week would have missed excessive class time. Now all classes run on five day cycles so that class time in minor subject areas is distributed evenly throughout the year.

For the most part students and teachers felt the new plan worked well during its first year. Some of the lazier students in school were harder to please. "It makes me think too much. I mean you think that's the reason I come here or something?"



Cycle days made calendars obsolete, and signs throughout the school reminded students of what DAY it was.

Mike poses with a Royal Guard at the Amalienbourg Palace in Copenhagen, Denmark

What did you do last summer? Most of us spent our time working, sunbathing, or just hanging around. Some of us don't remember what we did last summer. Mike Danowitz, a junior at Central Dauphin, will have vivid memories from the summer of '85 for the rest of his life. He spent the summer as a high school ambassador with the People to People Organization.

People to People sends a delegation of high school students to Europe and Asia each summer. This summer Mike, along with 28 other student ambassadors and four teachers, spent seven weeks overseas. In these thirty-five days they toured the U.S.S.R., Finland, Sweden, Denmark, England, and Ireland.

During five of the weeks the group traveled as a whole, exploring the political and cultural centers of the countries, watching the native entertainment, eating the food, and mingling with the citizens of each nation.

Mike, an avid photographer, took more than 700 photographs in the course of the trip. Making friends with the other ambassadors and getting to know the natives by trading buttons, food, and Polaroid photos, with them were Mike's favorite part of the trip.

The other two weeks were spent living with three foreign families. Mike spent several days with a family in Denmark, a family in Ireland, and one in England. "I was treated as a real friend, not a tourist . . . I loved it," Mike said of his home stays.

This experience gave Mike a chance to get to know the people as individuals and to form lasting friendships. Mike corresponds with many of the foreign and American friends he made this summer and plans to see them again.

Would Mike go again? "In a second!" he says.

PTA Sends Parents Back to School

Mrs. Osman explains the benefits of reading The Scarlet Letter to a few interested parents.

Phys. Ed. teacher Mr. Flickinger was a little hard to recognize in the coat and tie he wore to impress the parents.

Did you ever wish that your parents really knew what you had to go through each day at school? The long hike to the 500 hall, the boring English classes, the slave-driving teachers? Well, if you sent your parents back to school on October 9, maybe now they better understand your complaints.

Back to School Night is sponsored annually by the Central Dauphin PTA. This year, as usual, parents arrived at CD, gathered in the noisy cafeteria, chatted with their neighbors, and then went in search of their child's homeroom. There they received schedules and then tried to find their first period class. There was some confusion, and in at least one case a child sent her mother to the wrong rooms.

In most classes teachers did not discuss grades, but explained the contents and objectives of the course. The average time spent with each teacher was ten minutes. After classes, parents were served refreshments and then viewed a movie on drunk driving. Finally, the now wiser parents went home, tired and weary from trekking from the 100 hall to the 500 hall and back again — glad that they did not have to go back to school again until next year.

Examinations Make Students Feel "Testy"

Every year hundreds of Central Dauphin students participate in various kinds of standardized tests. Some choose to take these tests for their own benefit, while others are required to take them.

One of the better known tests is the PSAT, which stands for Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test. The primary purpose of the PSAT is to measure a student's verbal and math abilities and to serve as a practice test for the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT). The PSAT is given only once a year in October. Anyone may take this test, but it is primarily for juniors.

Incorporated in the PSAT is the National Merit Scholastic Qualifying Test (NMSQT). To determine if a student is eligible for a National Merit Scholarship, his verbal score on the PSAT is doubled and added to his math score and scaled accordingly. There has been at least one CD student every year who has been a semi-finalist for this prestigious scholarship. This year's semi-finalist was Pam Weaver.

The SAT measures a student's verbal and math aptitudes and is used for college admission. The test is given six times a year. Any student may take the SAT; last year 379 CD students took part in this test. CD students have scored higher than the national average on the SAT. Out of a possible 800 points in each section, Central Dauphin's average for the SAT is 445 verbal and 489 math, compared to the national average of 431 verbal and 475 math.

The Educational Quality Assessment Test (EQA) is given every three years in March. It is administered in grades 5, 8, and 11; therefore, the same students, such as this year's juniors, take this test every three years. The EQA assesses a student's verbal and math aptitudes and also asks questions concerning moral values.

Finally, the CTBS, or Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills, is given to all sophomores in March. The CTBS serves as an achievement test and helps to determine a student's placement scheduling courses.

Junior Ruth Barton fills in preliminary paper work for the SAT.

Team Work

Top Left: Centralian business staff members, April Bixler and Pam Brinton give up their lunch period to handle yearbook sales. Sales this year exceeded 750 books.

Top Right: Bandfront members Senta Smith and Chris Balint practice a rifle routine. Membership in the band means arriving at school for 8 A.M. practice.

Bottom Left: Juniors Sue Huhn, Joann Dimaria, Jen Romer, and Lynn Burkhardt have their own team of friends to promote school spririt.

Teamwork is one aspect of CD that endures. The athletic teams are not the only ones who work together. The student body gets involved in various activities which require teamwork throughout the year. They have many opportunities to work together to accomplish a single goal.

Homecoming is one of the events in which the entire student body can become involved. There is also the work of student government clubs, student publications, and service groups. Perhaps the one aspect of teamwork that we overlook is the team of faculty members who give us their time, knowledge, and dedication to prepare us for life's challenges.

This teamwork creates a bond of unity in the student body. We are able to share our feelings and ideas which help others. When we help others, not only do they find benefits, but we gain happiness and enjoyment. Many times if we have been willing to help our friends, they will be eager to show that they care by returning the favor.

Top: Designed by Kirk Bly, a 1985 graduate, this newly installed mosaic, a gift from the classes of '85 and '86, is a true symbol of teamwork.

They came into high school as the new kids. Yet, after settling in with everyday activities, the sophomores began to get organized. From this organization emerged the Sophomore Class Council.

In October the sophomore class had to vote among eighteen candidates for five offices. The participation of so many sophomores was the sign of something great to come. The results of the election left President Jon Kattouf, Vice-President Rusty Kratzer, Secretary Rachel Smith, Treasurer Mark Bryan, and Historian Paula Obercash as the young, new leaders of the class council.

Although the council was starting from scratch, they had many ideas and projects. With Mrs. Brent as class advisor, the council was able to see many of the projects become a great success. Because next year the council hopes to have one of the best and most unusual proms in the history of CD, they tried to raise most of the money this year.

Transition From Junior High Not Always Easy

Sophomores Terry Bowen, Tom Gamble, Lori Cannon, and Chris Kerlin, enjoy a few free minutes before they have to concentrate in English class.

Last year they were mean and tough. Now they are meek and mild. Well, at least for the first couple of months they were. Making the transition from junior high to senior high can be a treacherous one, but most sophomores adjust easily.

They found that they had to leave behind those short halls that once seemed so long only to exchange them for bigger ones. That long awaited ninth grade year, when they finally ruled their junior high, came and went, leaving them once again at the bottom of the ladder as sophomores.

Most sophomores will agree, however, that their low status was worth it. The transition was a time to change — change from chorus to choir, "sitting" band to marching band, and sports for fun to sports for accomplishment.

Even though many junior high friends were lost because they went to the other high school, sophomores were able to make new friends because they were no longer divided into sections. They also enjoyed new-found freedoms. They could walk the halls without keeping to the right, could use their lockers whenever they wanted, and had five wonderful choices at lunch instead of two. With these freedoms, however, came more responsibilities. They discovered they had to do more homework and more studying, for high school has greater academic expectations.

Their major concern was getting lost, but it's safe to say that very few of them received wrong directions. The sophomores somehow managed to survive and were ready to help next year's sophomores adjust to senior high.

Obercash Brings Experience to Gymnastics Team

Central Dauphin's brightest hopes for success this season in gymnastics lies in the name of Paula Obercash. Scoring the most points for CD last year as a freshman, Paula returned this year feeling even more confident about high school competition. Although this was only her second year on a high school team, Paula has been involved with gymnastics for ten years, competing as a member of the Harrisburg Gymmettes for eight of those years. As a Gymmette, Paula traveled with her team to several competitions in Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, and Ontario, Canada.

Paula earned a varsity letter as a freshman and went on to compete in Districts and State Championships at Shippensburg University. By graduation she hopes to qualify for regional competition and make a respectable appearance there.

When asked how she felt about Central Dauphin gymnastics this year, Paula responded, "With the dedication and experience of last year I think our team's going to do very well in the future." She seemed to think that more people were interested in becoming involved. The additonal organization made the kids more excited about gymnastics. Paula concluded by saying, "This year it seemed we were just more like a team."

Paula demonstrates her ability on the balance beam. She also posed for us before competing in floor exercises.

Sophomore golf star Debbie Eckroth placed second in District competition and sixth out of forty-four in state wide competition.

State competition was held at Elks Country Club outside of State College. The match was held despite cold weather and sleet, which did not make for easy playing. Debbie shot an 85 on her first round. After much practice on the putting green, she returned the next day to shoot a 76, the lowest score of her career. Her game improved even more when she shot her first eagle.

Debbie's feelings about competing in States were, "I couldn't have made it this far without my dad, who taught me everything I know, and my caddy, Eric, who also was a big inspiration."

Debbie's victory was a result of much time and effort, and we wish her continued success.

Kyle Johnson, a sophomore at CD, began playing soccer six years ago. He learned the fundamentals at Lower Paxton Soccer Association and began scholastic competition while attending East Junior High. Last summer he went to soccer camp in Florida in order to improve his skills and learn new ones. All of this time spent with soccer has led him to the position of varsity goalie.

Playing goalie can be a high pressure position. To deal with these pressures, Kyle talks to other players on the field. The goalie position can also have its dangers, especially when players are charging at you or the ball comes hurling towards you with great speed. Kyle, in his years of experience, has learned to cope with these conditions and to play as well as he can while attempting to improve his skills.

Track Program Encourages Individualism

Although the 1985 boys' track team did not have a winning season, they did show promise in individual competition. Major contributors to this promising team were Tom Hammond, Rob Heckman, Mike Heiss, and Ron Kent. Top performers in the field were Charlie Keyes, Mike Murphy, and Scott Albrecht. These team members bring their experience to the 1986 season.

The girls' team, though very young, put forth its best effort at every meet. This was apparent with the Rams victory in wind and snow at Middletown. A great number of these girls went on to participate in District 3 competition. District competitors included Lara Wilbur, 100 meters; Toni Childs, 100 high hurdles and triple jump; Missy Hendricks, high jump; Missy Van Natta, Sue Smyers, Joni Soutner, and Karen Williams in the 4x800 relay. All district competitors return to the 1986 team, making this a promising year for Coach Hardy.

Putting their best feet forward, Tom Hammond and Mike Heiss strive for victory against the Trojans.

Barry Atticks, Ron Kent, and Mike Heiss compare notes on strategy for the competition ahead of them.

Leading the pack for CD, Toni Childs hurdles for the finish line.

Keeping her stride, Missy Van Natta races to handoff the baton to her teammate.

Keeping her feet high, Kam Fischer puts all her effort into winning the triple jump.

Senior Mike Murphy stretches for that extra inch while triple jumping.

Tennis Teams Volley to Victory

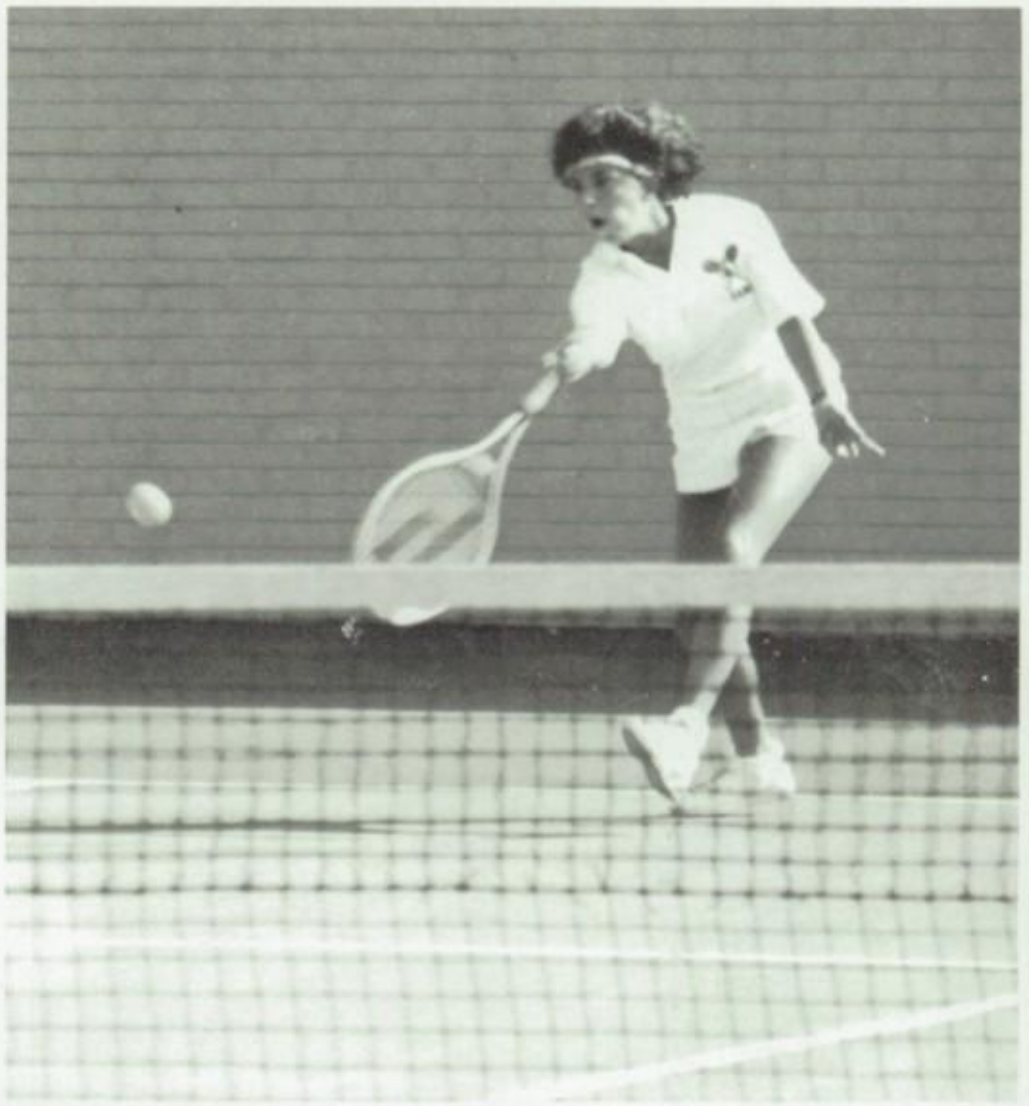
Finishing the 1985 season with an impressive record of 7 wins and 2 losses, the girls tennis team placed second in the Mid-Penn League. The top five players were Jody Rice, Suzanne Wampler, Betsy Epstein, Dawn Shearer, and Staci Wilbert.

Special credit should go to Rice, who has been both the top-seeded and most valuable player for four consecutive years. The dedicated Betsy Epstein was named this year's Most Improved Player.

At the Divisional Tournament, Sophomore Staci Wilbert garnered a first place win, while Rice took second in her number one position. The dynamic doubles team of Jody Rice and Suzanne Wampler finished with a first place win.

The 1985 boys tennis team tied for third place in Mid-Penn action during the spring of 1985. During that season Tom Brink, CD's number one player, won the Divisional championship and advanced to the District competition, where he was defeated in the quarter-finals.

Brink also paired up with Jody Rice to advance to the quarter-finals of the District 3 Mixed Doubles competition.



In the process of returning a serve, Betsy Epstein puts Chris Everett-Lloyd to shame.

Cheerleaders Promote School Spirit

The cheerleading squad, with Mrs. Nancy Thompson and Mrs. Mary Carr as advisors, continued to promote school pride and spirit.

During the summer the girls worked hard at weekly practices to prepare for the upcoming school year. They also attended a learning camp at the University of Maryland. There the Varsity, led by tri-captains Mindy Zimmerman, Marcy Baughman, and Teri Thompson, won many spirit awards. The Junior Varsity squad won Grand Champion in their division. They were also extended an invitation to compete in national competition in Nashville, Tennessee.

This year the Varsity became involved in a competition sponsored by Hardee's restaurant and held at the Zembo Mosque. Money from the competition was given to charity. The girls enjoyed competing and meeting girls from other schools.

Throughout football, basketball and wrestling both squads showed dedication and enthusiasm for a time-consuming activity.

Rams Challenged in Rebuilding Year

The 1985 Ram squad finished the season with 4 wins and 6 losses. However, only 9 or 10 points separated the team from a 7-3 record. The Mid-Penn Division I was ranked as one of the toughest leagues in the state. The Rams performed well with only two starters returning on offense and two on defense. A young junior backfield led by Fred Cutherbertson, Courtney Randolph, and Charlie Keyes amassed a total of 2800 yards in offense.

Several players were recognized by area coaches for their abilities. David Essis was named to the All League First Team Offense and the Second Team Defense, while Bill MacFarlane was named to Second Team Defense; Glenn Davis was selected the Second Team kicker, and Charlie Keyes was selected to the Second Team as a running back as well as a linebacker.

On the All Harrisburg Area Team John Silvers was named to the First Team as a defensive end; David Essis was selected to the Second Team as a defensive lineman; Fred Cuthbertson was named Honorable Mention Quarterback; and Charlie Keyes received Honorable Mention as a running back.

The team captains were Mike Murphy, Bill MacFarlane, and Charlie Keyes. Keyes was the first junior to be named captain in CD history.

Soccer Team Shares Mid-Penn Championship

The Rams soccer team finished the season with a record of 14 wins and 4 losses. This record was good enough to put the Rams in a three way tie for first place in Mid-Penn Division I.

CD was led by senior tri-captains Rich Fackler, Glenn Davis, and Joe Hoover, whose combined scoring totaled 43 goals. Sophomore goalie Kyle Johnson held the defense together with impressive performances throughout the season.

The Ram booters were forced to play with a young team consisting of only three senior starters. Brian Hefflinger and Andy Shearer gained needed experience by starting varsity as sophomores in key positions.

The team was honored to have Davis, Fackler, and Hoover selected for the Senior All-Star Team. Davis and Hoover were also named to the Mid-Penn Division I first team. Davis was also honored by his selection to the All-State team.

The Rams once again made it into the District 3 Playoffs where they were defeated by Waynesboro. CD had a 2-0 record against Waynesboro this season coming into the playoffs. Coach Smithers stated, "It's hard to beat a team three times."

Next season will prove to be interesting with a number of experienced seniors returning.

Harriers Show Endurance

Cross country running is an individual sport which demands strenuous work, constant conditioning, painstaking practices, and plenty of self-discipline. Because every course varies, each meet is a new challenge. The course may be from 2.8 to 3.1 miles through woods or cornfields, up hills, or around a neighborhood block; and in the fall the temperature may be 85 with extreme humidity or 30 with chilling winds.

The 1985 boys team, coached by Mr. Richard Holp, completed their season with a 6-7 record, compiling the best record since 1981. The team's co-captains, juniors Dan Hertzog and Gary Breon, led the team through a very competitive season highlighted by a double victory in a tri-meet with Hershey and Trinity. This year's team was comprised of 13 runners, 11 of which will return for a potentially promising season next year.

Team awards this season were presented to Dave Mull — Most Improved Runner, Greg West — Outstanding Sophomore, and Mike Anderson — Most Valuable Runner.

Co-captains senior Liz Miller and junior Kristen Mountain guided their team through times of distress to times of celebration. Returning from last year's team were Liz Miller, Kari Little, Amy Balsbaugh, and Jill Strohecker. The leading runner was freshman Dawn Daldo, who placed 5th at conference competition and 33rd in District III AAA championships. Seniors Lead Squad to Winning Season

The Rams field hockey team finished this year's season with a record of nine wins, six losses, and one tie. The team played many close games against some tough competition. The season was plagued with injuries. On the bright side, however, Patty Wallace was top scorer for the Rams with thirteen goals, giving her a sixth place finish among area Division I schools. The team was led on defense by Dawn Hower, Sheri Holsinger, and Mary Kay Breen. Patty Wallace and Kam Fischer were selected to the Mid-Penn Division I All-Star team. Wallace was also named to the annual Play Day All-Star team along with teammate Beth Staudt.

Golf Team a Driving Force Toward Success

Rams Capture Mid-Penn Championship

Anyone who has ever attempted to play golf will testify that it is for neither the impatient nor the non-committed. Central Dauphin's golf team displayed the kind of maturity, skill, consistency, and composure that comes with experience.

Under the direction of Coach David Eckroth, the golf team swung their way to a Mid-Penn Division I championship record of 15-1. Seniors Mike Heidelbaugh and John Smullen contributed solid play and leadership throughout the season. Veteran junior Tim Frankford and rookie junior Chip Thomas played well throughout the entire season. Sophomores Matt Heidelbaugh and Steve Wolf were among the team's leading scorers all year while Eric Gutshall and Debbie Eckroth contributed to the team's success.

With the majority of the team's members returning next year, our golfers will prove to be avid contenders for the Mid-Penn championship when they tee off next season.

Future PGA members, Tim Frankford, Mike Heidlebaugh, Eric Gutshall, and John Smullen practice putting before a big match.

Seniors on this year's championship team were John Smullen, Mike Heidlebaugh, and Mike Pantaleo.

Volleyball Team Nets .500 Season

Volleyball is a growing sport, and Central Dauphin is no exception. This year we entered Division II for the first time. The varsity, led by captain Robbie Rudy, ended the season with a record of 5 wins and 5 losses. The junior varsity was a bit more successful, ending the season with a second place in their division. Emily Ulsh, JV captain, and Shauna Wright, the only freshman on the team, did an outstanding job for the JV's. Melissa Wright, the scorekeeper, made a great contribution to the team by keeping score and cheering at the same time.

Three members of the team were chosen as representatives to the league All-Star Team. Rudy was selected for 2nd position on the first team while Marcy Baughman earned 8th position. Junior Kris Powley was chosen for 9th position on the second team.

Rams Plagued by Inconsistency

The boys' varisty basketball team got off to a slow start this season and could just never get it all together against their rough Mid-Penn Conference opponents. However, the somewhat dismal season was brightened by the play of seniors Rich Fackler, Matt Heberle, and Bill Kissel.

Seniors Kelly Bly and Bob Keller also contributed some quality playing time for a Rams team whose offense often sputtered.

Nevertheless, the future seems promising for Coach Cook and the Rams, with players like Brett Dearing, Stu Singer, Tom Demelfi, and Scott Neubold all returning next year.

Posting an overall winning record, the girls' basketball team has had a very successful season. Under the coaching skills of Mrs. Farrell, the team was offered a playoff berth. The Varsity Team consisted of captain Patty Wallace, Beth Staudt, Paula Balakonis, Kristen Van Scyoc, Jenny Watson, Judy Arnold, Stacy Hutchinson, and Tracy Beckly. Leading the team in scoring was junior Balakonis, with an average of 18 points per game. Seniors Patty Wallace, with an average of 16, and Beth Staudt also contributed to the cause. Balakonis and Wallace also led the team in rebounds.

For the second year in a row the Patriot News recognized Balakonis' talents by naming her to the Big 15.

Gymnastics Program Grows by Leaps and Bounds

Girls Finish With .500 Season

Under the leadership of Mr. Flickinger, the gymnastics team finished the season with a respectable 5-5 record. Sophomores Jenny Ball, Brenda Lafley, and Paula Obercash were among this year's outstanding gymnasts. All three qualified for Districts; Jenny Ball even advanced to state competition.

The gymnastics team was divided into a junior varsity and varsity squad. All varsity team members had to pass a challenging skill test. While the JV team practiced once a week, the varsity team members practiced five times a week in preparation for their meets. The events in which they competed were the uneven bars, balance beam, vault, and floor exercises. Because the team was comprised mainly of sophomores and juniors, next year we can expect an experienced team that will be better than ever.

Jenny has a "Ball" as she works out on the uneven parallel bars. She represented CD at state competition.

After her performance on the uneven bars, Karen Williams displays a perfect "10" form.

CD Flips for Ron Rash

For the last three years, senior Ron Rash has brought fame to both himself and to Central Dauphin by being one of the best gymnasts in the nation.

Ron began participating in gymnastics at the age of eight at the YMCA and started competition when he was nine. He now travels to Allentown three or four days a week to work out from 2½ to 3 hours a night. Ron shows superb skill on the pommel horse, floor exercise, still rings, vault, parallel bars, and the high bars. "Sometimes you feel like giving up, but you have to hang on and keep pushing forward," stated this dedicated athlete, who continuously strives to be the best he can be.

Ron hopes to receive a full college scholarship for his gymnastic abilities. He hopes to attend college in the west or in any peaceful location. He will undoubtedly be an asset to any college's gymnastics team and will continue to receive the recognition that he so greatly deserves.

A Year of Individual Excellence

While the 1985-86 wrestling team had its share of ups and downs, they produced another winning season of 11-6. Seniors Jim Patterson, John Rutter, and Derwin Tate served as captains for the young team.

Although the squad was comprised mainly of underclassmen, seasoned veterans came through with fine individual performances. Jim Paterson (18-3), John Rutter (17-3-1), Tim Hinson (20-6), Derwin Tate (20-2-1), and junior Charlie Keyes (20-2) all stood out with successful seasons.

CD wrestlers also showed they had what it takes at two tournaments. Tate and Patterson took first place at the Crestwood Tournament while Larry Patterson and Rutter were runner-ups. During the Warwick Tournament Tate and Rutter finished first while Jim Patterson received 3rd place.

Both varsity and junior varsity displayed their ability throughout the season. A 28-26 victory over previously 2nd ranked Susquenita in AA stood as a major highlight for a somewhat disappointing season.

In his 26th season, Coach Kreamer feels it is most rewarding seeing young men mature and mold not only into good wrestlers, but also into fine young men. "It takes a certain type of person to wrestle," states Kreamer.

This season six matmen will be graduating, leaving only six varsity lettermen returning next year.

Swim Team Stays Afloat

Even more swimmers and divers participated on this year's team than last year. With the guidance of Coach Weir and Assistant Coach Diffenderfer, both teams performed well.

The boys completed the season with a record of 6-3. Boys' captains, John Silvers and Dave Reardon, led their team's successful season. Swimming sensation Andy Linn, a ninth grader, broke the school record in the 100 meter breast stroke with a time of 1:30.8. Five boys represented CD at the District Meet. Those members were Bert Marlin, Dan Corbett, Todd Keefer, Reardon, and Linn.

Girls' captains, Amy Vogel and Patty Timmerman, guided their teammates through a tough season, but finished with a record of 4-5. CD was well-represented by Michele VanNatta, Patty Timmerman, Adrienne Timmerman, and Joann Fauver at the District Meet.

Coach Weir commented that he was pleased with the accomplishments of this year's team.

Yearbook Staff Records Today's

Assembling a yearbook is an extremely difficult and time-consuming job; but under the guidance of editor-in-chief Jennifer Crissman and advisor Patricia Herigan, this year's Centralian promises to be the best ever.

This year marks the first time that the entire opening theme section, the senior section, and four pages in the sports section will be in full color. None of this would have been possible without the hard work of the business staff, led by editor Karen Carnathan and advisor Patricia Osman, who raised money through Santa pictures, computer valentines, the Legs '85 contest, and patron ads.

According to Crissman, preparing a yearbook is a year-long task. The staff and its new members reorganized last June. Herigan and Crissman met with photographers and the publishing representative during the summer to plan and organize for the deadlines throughout the year. Staff members worked before school, during lunch, and after school in order to meet the color deadline in October. Many times throughout the year the staff held frantic, late-night meetings in order to complete pages for deadline.

Herigan's journalism class was an important part of the procedure. Students who elected the course spent the first nine weeks of class training and practicing publishing and editing skills. Then they wrote copy, captions, and headlines; they cropped pictures, drew layouts and proofread copy. Without them the editors would have had difficulty preparing the yearbook for publication.

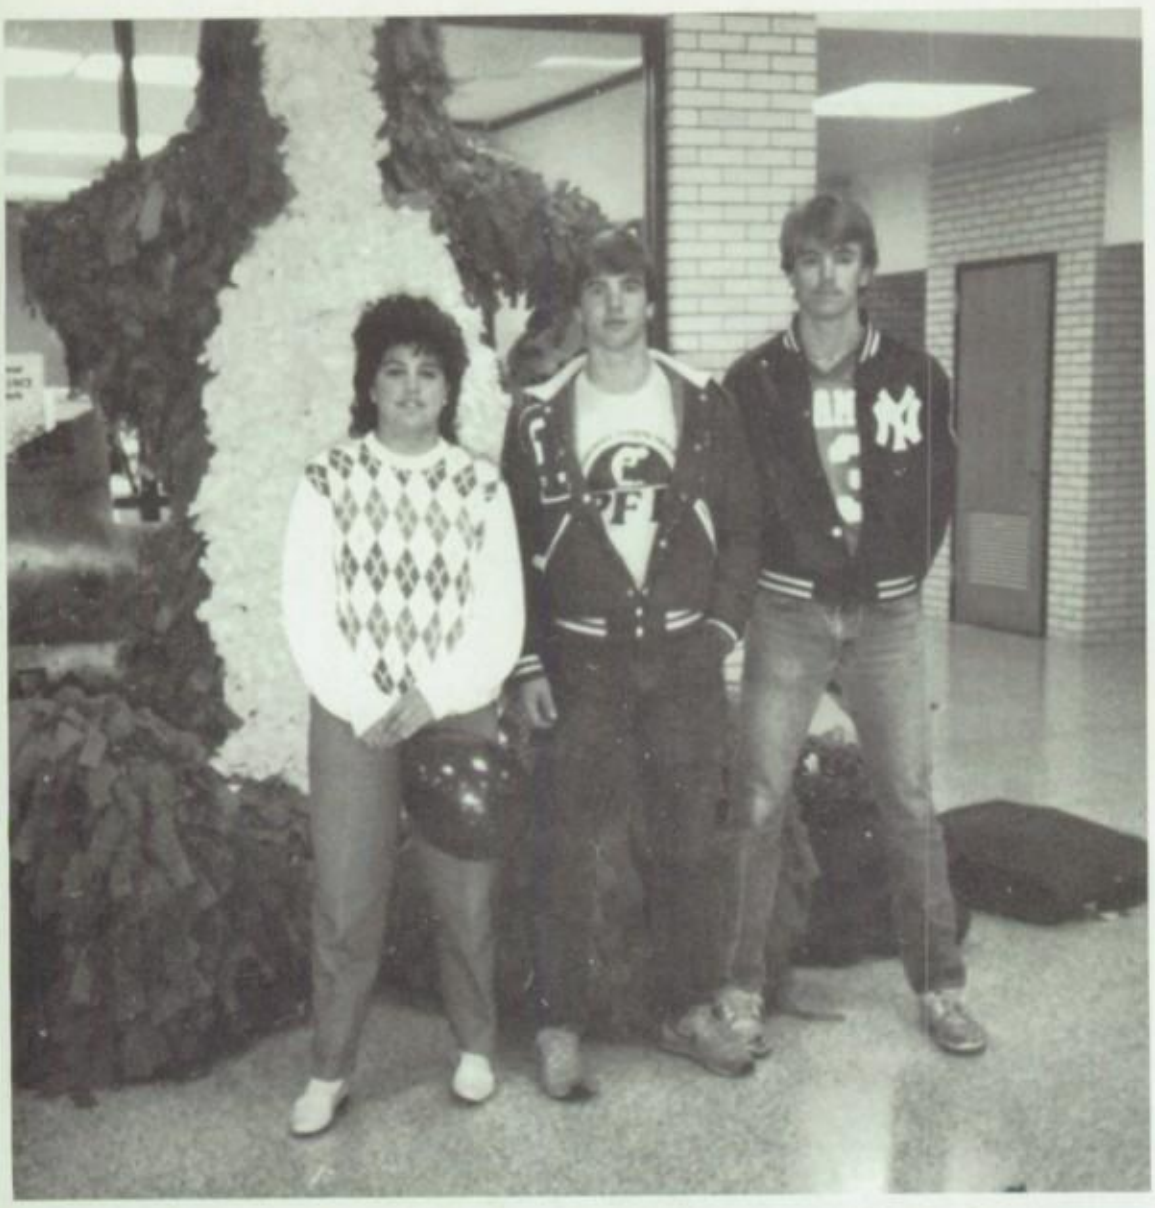
Student Council Serves to Enrich Life at CD



Serving both the school and community, the Student Council emerged this year as an active organization sponsoring varied activities. Led by advisors Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Thompson and by officers Bob Keller, Scott Albrecht, Karen Williams, and Liz Link, the Council organized the Homecoming and Thanksgiving dances, the Food Basket Drive, and the volleyball tournament held in February. This diligent organization was also responsible for the installation of the fruit juice vending machine and for planning the activities day which was held the day before Christmas vacation.

Central Dauphin was well represented by Keller, Albrecht, and junior representative Jill Deibler at the annual Pennsylvania Association of Student Councils Conference which met in November. While providing CD with many services, the Student Council members gained valuable knowledge in the experience of government and politics.

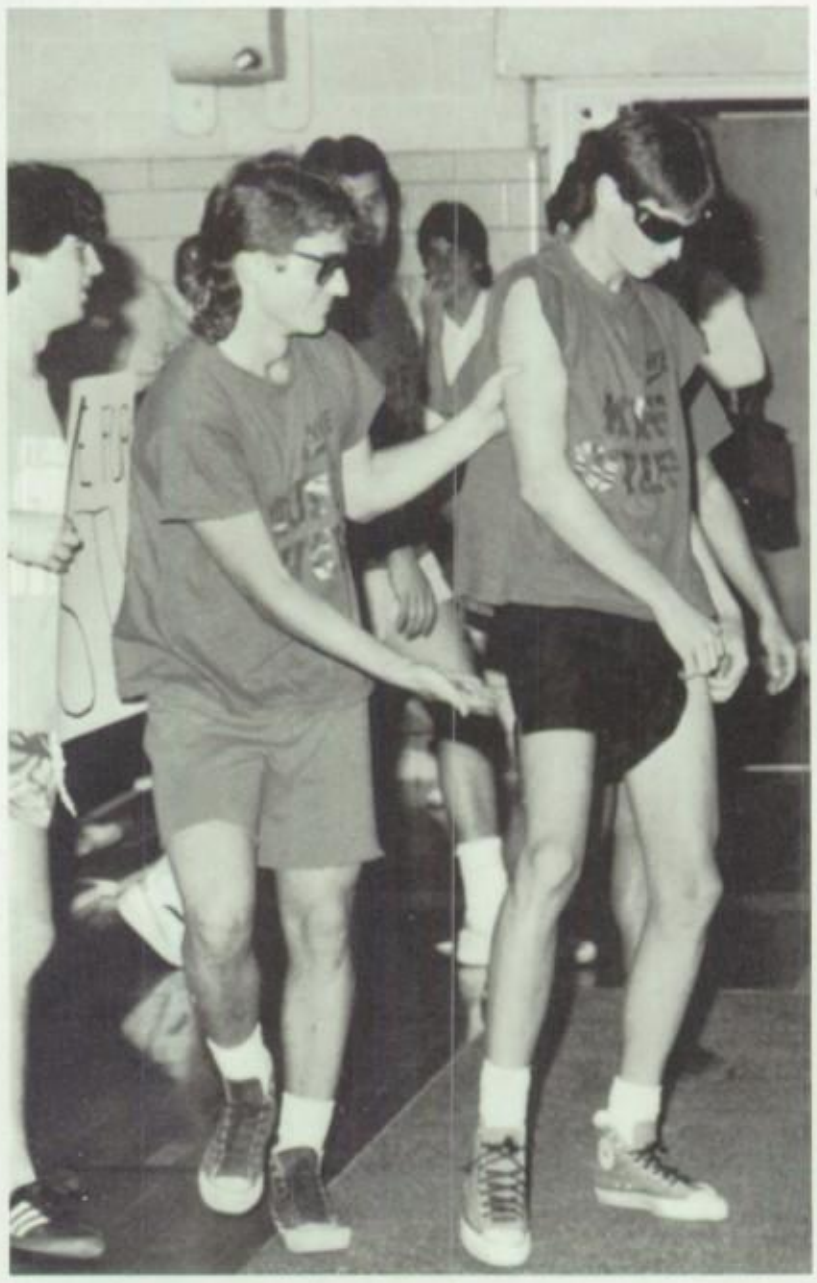
Great Pair of Legs!

Nothing beats a great pair of legs . . . Just ask Stu Singer or Diane Watson, winners of last year's Legs '85 contest. The purpose of this contest was to raise money for the yearbook. Votes and nominations were taken at lunch. Each vote cost 5¢, and the students and teachers who received the most votes participated in the finals of the contest. A panel of celebrity judges from local radio and TV stations selected the winners at a special assembly where each finalist got to "strut his stuff." Judging was based on showmanship, audience reaction, and, of course, physique.

In addition to raising $500 in profit for the yearbook, the contest was an entertaining experience for all. Stu Singer, winner in the male student division, said, "It was the funniest thing I ever did at school." Faculty advisors, Mrs. Herigan and Mrs. Osman, were pleasantly surprised at the enthusiastic participation and support of the student body and faculty. According to them, "It was great to see the student body joining together as a group to support an activity. We raised more money than we ever anticipated."



Escorted to the judges by Glenn Davis, Stu Singer shows off his sexy legs, the legs of '85.

Dawn to Dusk

Overtime activities call for sacrifices, skill and that extra touch of determination

As dawn broke in the hazy sky, 113 sleepy students could be seen drilling new marching formations behind the faculty parking lot. Before the day was over, many more hours were dedicated to extracurricular activities. From football players to dramatics, students were involved in activities which required time outside regular school hours and often stayed late or came early to perfect skills.

Students involved in extracurricular interests spent anywhere from 5 to 40 hours a week outside regular class hours on their activity. Usually it did not affect schoolwork in the long run, but time and obligations were often shifted to accomodate activity schedules.

Some organizations even began their year early. Three weeks into the summer vacation the editors of the Centralian began planning this year's book. Band members got an early start as they ended the summer on a warm note by practicing their way through mid-August heat. Fall sports teams also began practice in August, and the cheerleaders started early with various cheerleading camps and summer practices.

Dedication to after-hour activities came from personal interests or plans for the future. Often the activity was a preparation for career plans and goals. Some students planned careers in dramatics, journalism, music, or athletics. Aspirations of success in later life motivated students to spend the time and effort required for activities.

Extracurricular activities had their ups and downs. The dedicated few involved in school organizations and sport teams soon discovered that they had little time for TV, working or any other activity. Workouts were often difficult and exhausting. However, no matter how grueling the rehearsals, workouts, and practices were, students enjoyed their activities and benefited from them.

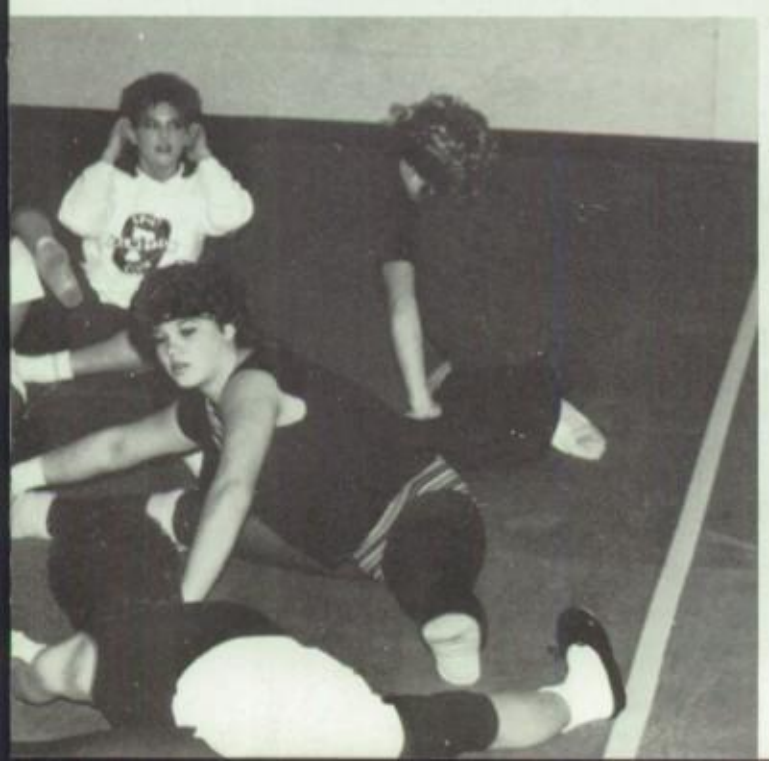
Centralian staff editors Michelle Bright, Keith Grubb, and Jen Crissman miss dinner at home in order to meet a deadline.

Gymnastics team members return to school after hours to practice for upcoming meets.

"I thought you used a bugle to play reveille," Jim Myers asks trombonist Tom Shafer at an early morning band practice.

Feature majorette Tracy Bailets shows the end result of long hours of dedication and hard work.

Student trainers Kelly Nasatka and Michelle Van Natta return to school on Friday nights to aid Rams football team. These students spend many hours after school during all sports seasons assisting "Doc" Wallace in the training room.



Strike Up the Band

After bringing home the Group II Grand Champion trophy last May from competition in Wildwood, N.J., the Ram band started practicing again in the midst of summer. Under the direction of drum majors Barry Atticks and Beth Lent, the marching band performed their Beatles' tribute with soloists Paul Rode and Steve Kaullen at all football games and in several competitions. The band hosted its fourth annual Band-a-Rama in September and competed in Morgantown, WV, in October. November brought the Chapter VI Championships, where they placed seventh in Group III. For the second year the Drum Line captured the Best Percussion Award. This year the band ended their season with one of the 25 highest scores on the east coast and for the first time attended Atlantic Coast Championships. They also participated in the West Hanover Bicentennial Parade, Paxtang Halloween Parade, Dauphin County Bicentennial Parade, and the Memorial Day Parade.

The concert band performed their share of music at the combined band and choir patriotic concert in February, held a spring concert in May, and entertained at graduation. Several members were selected for Dauphin County Band, and Michele Ehler, Tammy Carson, Ray Caperoon, Beth Lent, and Randy Frye were chosen to play in the Lebanon Valley College Honors Band. In February six band members represented CD at the District Band Festival hosted by Cedar Crest High School.

The Stage Band played in a combined concert with East High and held a Stage Band Dance in late April.

In its third year of existence at CD, our indoor percussion unit showed its growth and talent playing music from "Jesus Christ Superstar" in several competitions and performing at our own Winterama competition.

A year filled with hours of practice ended with the Annual Awards Banquet at the Holiday Inn in Grantville. Thanks to the direction of Mr. James Milbrand, the Ram Band had a very successful year.

Up Front With the Band

This year's bandfront consisted of flags, rifles, and majorettes. The job of the bandfront was to perform routines that added to the visual effects of the half-time shows, parades, and competitions.

The bandfront practiced every morning before school with the band, and normally each group had their own individual evening practices. This year's captains were Andrea Hancher and Jeni Giemza for flags, Chris Balint for rifles, and Jenny Bernard and Michelle Reckner for majorettes. To add to the overall performances, Tracy Bailets was chosen as feature majorette.

After marching band season was concluded, the bandfront participated in the Keystone Indoor Drill Association.

Every Monday, Wesnesday, and Friday morning one may see students at CD that are not CDers. Who are they? They are from East High. But why are they here? They are members of the Central Dauphin District orchestra. Three mornings a week students from CD and East High rehearse from 8:00-8:45 at CD.

The orchestra, directed by Mr. Terry Bone, performs two concerts a year, one at Christmas and another in the spring. Besides performing at the school, the orchestra has traveled to various elementary schools and last year to Strawberry Square. This year's Christmas concert was combined with the Central Dauphin choir. The orchestra is continually growing. Mr. Bone would like to eventually develop separate orchestras for each high school, and it is a possibility in the near future.

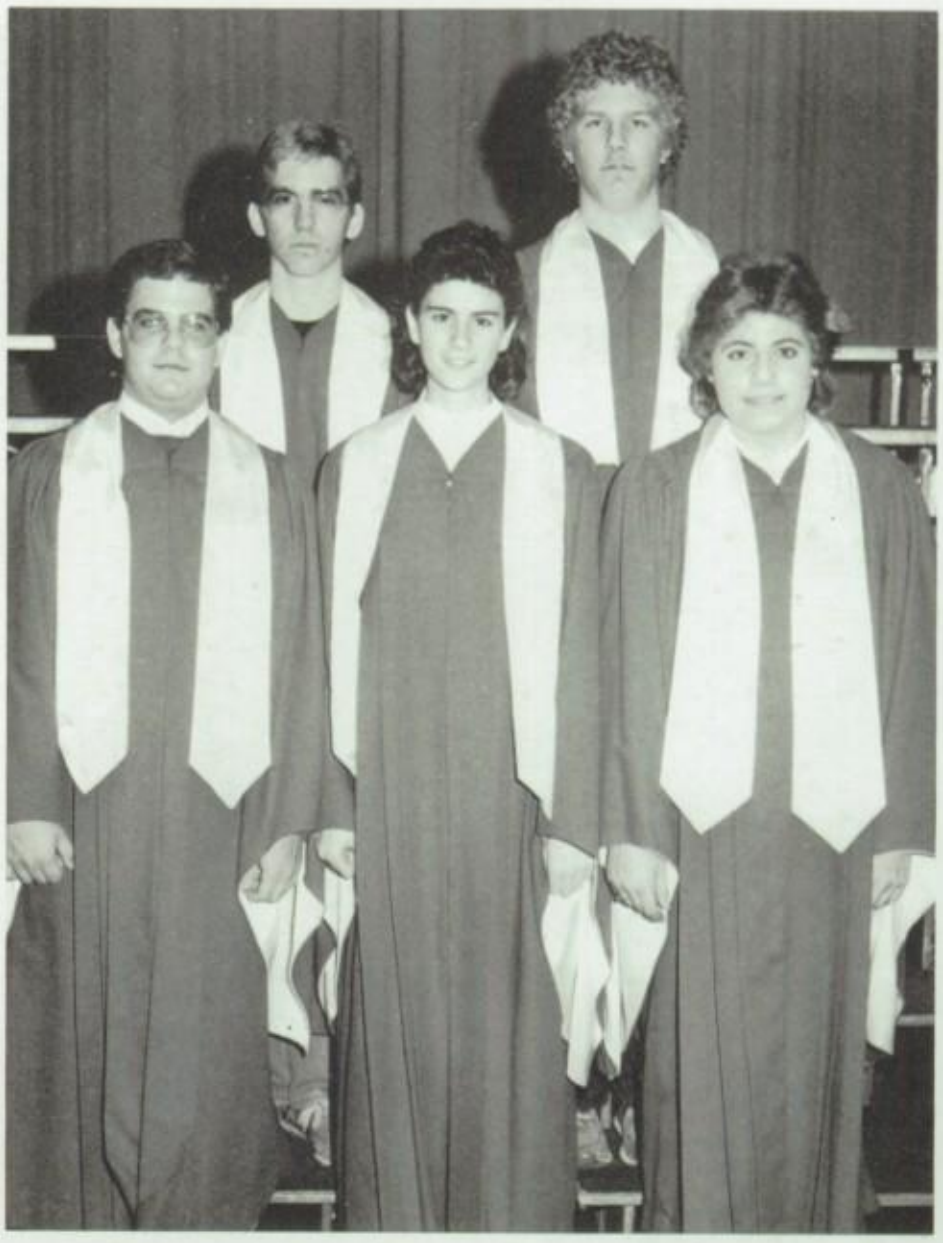
Senior Todd Behney and his baby, sophomore Brenda Heft, show their Halloween spunk in these original costumes.

Do-Re-Mi-Fa-



What was the biggest and loudest group of students to hit the CD scene this year? It's CD choir, of course! The group had 205 members directed by the energetic O. David Deitz.

They impressed audiences at both Strawberry Square and the state capitol, then mobbed the stores and restaurants in the Square. The choir had many other performances: the combined concert with the choir from East, the pops concert, a combined concert with the CD band, the annual spaghetti dinner, and graduation.

What does a student get out of choir? "Several things," says Mr. Deitz, "foremost of which is a spirit of group cooperation, a valuable skill in life and on the job."

Four Tri M recitals were organized for students who wanted to perform a solo or in an ensemble for an audience. Students who performed in at least two recitals were inducted as Modern Music Masters.

Another subdivision of the choir was the Singers, a small group of the better singers in choir. They were able to go places where the entire choir could not be taken, like Hershey High School, Wonderful Wanda's, Capital City Mall, and the Marriott.

Under the student leadership of officers Keith Grubb, Maria Moran, Karen Pavuk, and Jim Myers, the choir worked hard, had fun, and enjoyed a successful year.

Choir Presents "The Apple Tree"

Throughout the years Central Dauphin has traditionally presented a fall musical or operetta. Yet, out of all those many shows, The Apple Tree, directed by Mr. Deitz, was probably the most unusual, outrageous comedy ever performed within the walls of CD.

The Apple Tree was originally performed on broadway in the late 1960s. It is a three part show with "Adam and Eve" being the first sequence . The story is performed in a comical fashion which describes how the life of Adam and Eve might have been. The leads were Michael Heiss and Celeste Silvers.

The second part was "Barbara," a version of the lady and the tiger retold with singing and dancing. The end leaves the audience in suspense, wondering if the man will choose the correct door. The main leads were Eric Boltz, Vera Leister, and Ken Bateman.

Finally, the last portion was an updated version of "Cinderella," which was called "Passionella." In this part a young girl who is a chimney sweep is transformed into a glamorous movie star. However, she soon becomes conceited and shallow until she falls in love. Leads were Maria Moran, Sue Nicodemus, and Jody Baker.

Throughout the show, Ray Kasper played the connecting force — the Snake in "Adam and Eve," the Gatekeeper in "Barbara," and the fairy godmother in "Passionella." When the three stories were put together, one zany musical was the result.

Celeste cools off Mike after a rough day of playing basketball in the garden.

Eric Boltz and Vera Leister attentively wait to sing their next solos.

Sue Nicodemus is serenaded by Jody Baker, the man of her dreams, in "Passionella."

Eric Boltz, Vera Leister, Ken Bateman, June Beadencup, and Ray Kasper, the leads in "Barbara," take time out to pose for a "pretty" picture.

The guards in Apple Tree patiently await their next victim.

Julie Saltzer, Mike Heiss, Tabitha Eckert, and Cindy Tracey ask the musical question, "How does it feel to be the world's ideal?"

The cast of The Apple Tree sits wide-eyed waiting for their next cue.

The Best Christmas Pageant Ever

This year Central Dauphin enjoyed a new Christmas experience. The Christmas spirit arrived in the form of a play. For several weeks the cast of The Best Christmas Pageant Ever rehearsed for their presentation. Directed by Mr. Deitz, with the help of student director Dina Ellis, the play was presented on December 14 and 16. It was also presented for the student body in a special assembly on December 20.

The play was about a mother who gets "stuck" with the job of directing the Christmas pageant for the town church. Some of the most mischievous kids in town, the Herdmans, assumed the leads, and everyone waited for the disastrous play. Everything worked out fine, and the Herdmans, as well as members of the congregation, discovered the true meaning of Christmas.

The leads were held by Ken Bateman, Mike Chung, Michelle Braucher, and Jenny Romberger. The Herdmans were Chris Wilhelm, Ray Kasper, Julie Saltzer, Randy Keller, Fred Rudy, and Jenny Elser.

After the great success of The Best Christmas Pageant Ever, Vincena Allen, Kathy Carl, Missy Anderson, Maria Moran, and Vera Leister decide to call their agents.

The Herdmans, terror of the Sunday School, undergo angelic transformations in "The Best Christmas Pageant Ever."

Childhood star Matt Hoffer and the Sunday School kids rehearse their lines for the "Big Performance."

"Trouble" Comes to CD

As a result of the hard work and dedication of more than 60 students, CD presented The Music Man on March 7 and 8 in the school auditorium.

Under the direction of David Deitz, Kenneth Zimmerman, and choreographer Richard Wilson, The Music Man tells the story of the fast-talking con man Harold Hill, who comes to River City, Iowa, to start a fake band. Marian Paroo, the town's librarian, sees through Harold's plan. The two fall in love, and Harold transforms the town from a bunch of stubborn Iowans to a cheerful community of music lovers.

Members of the cast included Ray Kasper as Harold Hill, Sue Nicodemus as Marian Paroo, Randy Frye as Mayor Shinn, Vincena Allen as Eulalie Shinn, Julie Clouser as Mrs. Paroo, and Mike Chung as Marcellus.

Highlights of the musical included "Ya Got Trouble," the Wells Fargo Wagon scene, and the "Shipoopi Dance."

The town gossips express their excitement about "the band" while Eulalie (Vincena Allen) looks on in distaste.

Unsure of what they have created, Mr. Deitz and Mr. Zimmerman step back to take a look.

Some aspiring young actresses receive some pointers from Mr. Zimmerman on improving their acting techniques.

Once again Prof. Harold Hill (Ray Kasper) has conned a lady with his charm. This time it's Marian Paroo (Sue Nicodemus).

"Look!" That's what the cast members are doing while they try to see the oncoming Wells Fargo Wagon.

A group of traveling salesmen discussed how the cunning Harold Hill has ruined their territory with his underhandedness.

A group of cast members tell why "You really ought to give Iowa a try."

"Iowa Stubbornness," the attitude of the people Harold Hill is trying to deal with, is portrayed by Chris Wilhelm, Dennis Wilson, Laurie Eckels, and Jenny Romberger.

Computer buffs Steve Gross, Andy Gross, and Eric Hennenhoffer worked as a team and placed fourth in a local computer contest.

Using her knowledge of computers, Jen Kostin solves a business problem in Computer Applications class.

Discover makes investigating career choices easier. Chris Kerlin uses it to help plan course choices for his career.

Office secretary Mrs. Shovlin finds that recording attendance and student grades is much easier with a computer.

One computer student, senior Eric Saylor, finds that math problems are more exciting when he uses the computer.

Computers Ease School Life

Introducing computers at Central Dauphin has made life easier for many — just ask the office secretaries. Although there is only one computer in the office, it is used for keeping students' grades and taking attendance more efficiently.

Computers have also aided the guidance office in being able to help students choose an occupation. The guidance office has a computer program called Discover. In order to use Discover, students must sign up one day in advance and get a pass from a guidance counselor to use the computer during study hall. Discover lets students search for an occupation by using the students' aptitude test scores, occupational interests, selected job characteristics and majors or programs of study.

Computers have also become an important part of the curriculum. Computer courses are offered by the math department and the business department.

Computers are changing students' lives at school. They make everything much easier, and it doesn't take much to learn to use them.

NEVER QUITE LIKE THIS

As we look back on the 1985-86 school year, we remember a year filled with controversy and change. While South African blacks continued to protest their government's policy of apartheid, America celebrated Martin Luther King Jr's birthday as a National Holiday for the first time.

Many students put aside thoughts of summer trips abroad because of numerous hijackings and terrorist attacks. President Reagan had warned that Americans must assume they were at risk if traveling overseas. At the same time, hopes for world peace were raised by his summit talks with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbechov.

Astronomers' eyes were fixed on the nighttime sky, for this was the year of Halley's Comet. The PAC Club built a time capsule in honor of the event, to be opened when the Comet appears once again. Unfortunately, 1986 was also the year of the worst disaster in the history of the space program. The explosion of the space shuttle Challenger killed its seven crew members, including the first teacher in space.

The music industry gained respect and admiration for its many efforts to raise money for the hungry, victims of AIDS, and America's farmers. A few of the more frequently heard artists were Tears for Fears, Heart, Wham, Sade, and Sting.

At the movies, faithful Rocky fans cheered as the Italian Stallion defeated yet another opponent in Rocky IV. The Color Purple was the favorite of many, receiving eleven Academy Award nominations. A phenomenon known as The Cosby Show kept most people glued to their television sets on Thursday nights. The antics of the Huxtable clan kept the show at the top of the Nielson ratings.

The fashion world kept many people wondering if it wasn't really 1966 instead of 1986. Mini-skirts, wild flowered prints, and paisley made it seem like Woodstock all over again. Big shirts worn untucked, black laced boots, stirrup pants, and Swatches were other hot trends.

Central Dauphin experienced as many changes as the outside world. Mr. Brightbill and Mr. Bouve retired, making Mr. Kitch and Mr. Barton assistant principals and Mr. Vishnesky principal. It was the beginning of cycle days, the system that produced comments such as, "It's not Tuesday, it's Day three. Or is it?" The day before Christmas vacation was the first "fun" day, with a play, a gymnastics demonstration, basketball games, and a concert by "The Rain" being the featured activities. It was also the first year CD played host to National Theater of Performing Arts, which brought several cultural assemblies to the school.

When we look back on 1986 ten years from now, the events and issues of the era will have been blurred by time. We will still, however, remember what it felt like to be a part of it — the excitement and hope, along with some fear of the future. 1986 will always be a special year, not only for the seniors, but for all who experienced it.

This locker is "a la mode" with some of the year's latest fashions. The varsity look is worn by Cathy Weisinger while the paisley look is modeled by Cathy Carl and Sandy McNeilly.

Students join in a jam circle at the rock and roll extravaganza. Friday night dances after ball games helped to start the weekends off on the right note.

Tall, short, tan, man! Men are covering every inch of Karen Snyder's locker.

"Double, double, toil and trouble." Mad scientist Frank Thompson prepares a mixture that would put the witches' brew to shame.

During English class Kim Hoffman's confusion about typing the research paper causes Dina Ellis to chuckle.

Club Promotes German Culture

The German Club seeks to cultivate interest in the German language, the arts, and other aspects of German culture through club activities and field trips. The club annually visits a German restaurant and sponsors a trip to New York City where students enjoy visiting culturally relevant shops, restaurants, and museums. The club welcomed to its membership this year Uta Neiss, an exchange student from West Germany.

The club is advised by Miss Hernley.

Club Provides Key to Service

This year marks the first time since 1969 that CD has had a Key Club. Organized mainly by senior Scott Albrecht, the Key Club is a branch of the Kiwanis Club and is a community service organization.

Albrecht became interested in forming the Key Club because he felt CD needed one after such a long absence. He views the Key Club as a social organization that benefits both club members and the community. He was able to organize the club through the sponsorship of the East Shore Kiwanis Club. The Key Club is led by officers Scott Albrecht, President; John Silvers, vice-president; Celeste Silvers, secretary; and Jody Rice, treasurer.

On January 26, the club members visited retarded children at the Child Care Center in Hummelstown. Other activities included participating in a 12 hour rock-a-thon for needy children and participating in the Special Olympics at West Perry High School in May.

Spaced-out Club Looks at Stars

PAC, better known as the Planetarium Assistant's Club, finds itself as one of Central Dauphin's finest and most important service clubs. Since its origins in the early 1970s the club has been able to give interested students an outlet for an extra scientific education.

Usually the PAC met after school on most Tuesdays and Thursdays in order to plan activities and help prepare shows for science classes. Members also helped with planetarium shows during their study halls.

This year the PAC planned two very successful shows for the community. The fall show featured Halley's Comet. Due to an overwhelming demand by the community, the show was held for four nights. The spring show proved just as successful. Spotlighted in this presentation was the spring sky as well as an update on Halley's Comet.

As a special project this year, in conjunction with Halley's Comet, the PAC planned a time capsule. Many things, from newspapers to a yearbook signed by all of Central Dauphin's students, were put inside the capsule. The idea of the capsule is that it will be open in 2061 when Halley's Comet returns so that people can see what life was like at Central Dauphin in 1985-86.

With this really interesting club it is no wonder faculty advisor Dennis Phillippy enjoys it so much. Phillippy says, "being in charge of the PAC gives me an opportunity to touch base with students and get to know them better. The club is for the kids and it is whatever they make of it."

Honor Society Members Make the Grade

Central Dauphin's outstanding students are recognized by the National Honor Society for their superior scholarship, leadership, service and character. The highly motivated members, who must maintain a 3.2 grade point average, are voted into the society by the faculty.

The NHS is led by advisers Miss Caum and Mrs. Hardy and by officers Vincena Allen, Keith Grubb, Jennifer Crissman, and Teri Thompson. The Honor Society holds two inductions each year in which the new members participate in a candle lighting ceremony. The first is held in October, and the second occurs in the spring at a banquet honoring the senior members. NHS members also attend a breakfast with the faculty in the spring. Annually, members of the Honor Society participate in the College Quiz Bowl held in March, and act as ushers for the Commencement activities. Most importantly, NHS members provide tutoring services to aid Central Dauphin students.

By making announcements, Ron Giovanniello, Barry Attciks, and Angie Quenzler apply their speaking skills and aid the school.

Public Speaking Rewards Students, Aids School

Public speaking is offered at Central Dauphin for those students who desire an interesting and rewarding course. Meeting daily, this elective offers a real chance to develop and use the art of speaking.

Instructor Rebecca Deitman covers many areas of speech in class. Among topics studied are speech disabilities and handicaps as well as extemporaneous speaking.

Heavy emphasis is placed on writing and research skills. Each student must prepare several speeches, working to become a proficient orator.

These creative students had several opportunities to show off their skills in a number of contests. Ron Giovanniello won first place in the Voice of Democracy contest sponsored by the American Legion. Sue Nicodemus placed second, and Patty Wallace placed third in this contest on the local level. Glenn Shaffer, Angie Quenzler, and Melissa Wright were winners in the Public Service Announcements contest sponsored by Mothers Against Drunk Driving and Television Channel 43.

Class members also put their speaking skills to work each day at school. Every morning and afternoon the school depends on the public speaking class to bring announcements over the public address system. These members can also be found announcing play-by-play action at home basketball games.

Winners in the Voice of Democracy contest, Sue Nicodemus, Ron Giovanniello, and Patty Wallace, show the enthusiasm they have for public speaking.

The public speaking class listens attentively as Jill Deibler and Jenny Elser present their views on an assigned topic.

Students Volunteer Time

Stage Crew Lights Up CD Productions

Behind all of the glitter of the CD stage there was a group of dedicated students who liked to get down and dirty. The stage crew spent many hours hammering and painting in order to organize the scenery for the musicals and plays presented at CD.

Also, after the productions were over, they had the nasty job of tearing down everything that they had built. Most of the assemblies were made possible by them as well because they were in charge of the sound system in the auditorium.

Mr. Cassel was the faculty advisor, and Mr. Bavington supervised the hands-on task of building the sets.

It's a dirty job, but someone's got to do it.

A-V Club Projects Service

Even though they are a small club, the Audio-Visual Club, under the direction of Mr. Ferguson, provides a valuable service to CD. Members Mark Balthaser, Jerry Barton, and Chris Miller are responsible for transporting equipment necessary for audio or visual instruction.

The club members are also responsible for the care and maintenance of all the A-V equipment and for doing minor repair work.

Club members see that the necessary equipment is available in the classroom, tape specials or educational programs for teachers, and set up special film productions for assemblies. Through the club, members serve as the direct link between teachers and necessary classroom equipment and also gain experience by working with various types of equipment.

Aides Maintain Efficiency in Library

Central Dauphin boasts one of the largest and most attractive high school libraries in the mid-state areas. The library plays a major role in the academic life of CD students. In addition to offering a library orientation program to all sophomores, the l attempts to meet the need for in-d research done in various acad areas by juniors and seniors. Altho academic research is the main thr of the library, every attempt is made provide life skills and recreation, reading.

Mr. Zimmerman is assisted in maintaining an efficient library by approximately 15 students. These library aides sacrifice their study halls to staff the circulation desk and card and shelve books. Although they receive little recognition, the library aides provide a valuable service to the students and faculty of the school.

HEALTH CAREERS CLUB. M. Lewis, R. Smith, M. Bistline, Mrs. Russ, J. Hetrick.

Health Club Provides Practical Experience

"Service" is the key word for the members of Central Dauphin's Careers in Health Club. Club members assist school nurse Mrs. Russ in her duties and also perform various tasks for our school community. They can be found doing anything from putting band-aids on scratches to giving whirlpool treatments to those who are seriously injured.

After learning basic first aid principles, many of the students involved in this club then render their services in the nurse's office. Some students, who participate as student trainers, have all spent a week at one of various colleges learning basic skills of sports medicine. These student trainers assist the nurse and the athletic trainer.

These dedicated students perform their work before school and during school in their study halls. As the majority of these members seek careers in medicine, Mrs. Russ aids them by furthering their knowledge in this field. All members are encouraged to participate in local community health careers programs. Overall, the services provided by this club and the experiences gained by its members have proven to be valuable assets to the health program at CD.

Traditions offer an easily understood meaning to what might otherwise seem senseless

Research paper, a major part of senior English grades, caused many students some moments of anxiety. Robbie Rudy heaves a sigh of relief when she sees her grade.

Free at last! Bill MacFarlane expresses his feelings about the last day of school!

A girl of the eighties, Liz Link does not believe in discrimination. She gives Brian Farling an equal opportunity to be queen for a day.

Deserted and blanketed with snow, Landis Field reflects a peacefulness that is in direct contrast with the noise and crowds of athletic events.

To our Alma Mater ever
dear,
We raise this song of praise,
And we'll oft recall as best of all
Our happy high school days.
Forever our banner
of green and white will fly
Till the Hall of Fame will claim
The name of Central Dauphin High.

Graduation ceremonies were held at Hershey Arena on June 4, 1986.

CD football games will always be remembered for the good times spent with friends. Amy Solinski and Jennie Lindsey enjoy a Friday night game.

"We all live in a yellow submarine." CD's drum line performs another spectacular half-time show.

THANK GOD!

Dear Classmates,

This yearbook marks the end of a major accomplishment in the lives of the seniors — three years at Central Dauphin. It is very difficult to publish a yearbook that will satisfy everyone. It takes time and patience when dealing with copy, layouts, pictures, deadlines, pressure and people. I hope that in years to come when we look back at our yearbooks, the Centralian staff will have preserved the memories and traditions that we have shared.

The staff of the Centralian and the senior class would like to thank our friends, teachers, and families for giving us the unfailing support we needed in our moments of despair. They helped inspire thoughts, watched our steps, set the pace, and, most importantly, they believed in us. I would like to thank Overby Photography and Mr. Ed Patrick, Taylor Publishing Representative, for all their help and invaluable advice. To the principals and secretaries, thank you for all the help you gave us in the office. Finally, I want to sincerely thank the yearbook staff and editors: Missy Anderson, Michelle Bright, Karen Carnathan, Mike Danowitz, Keith Grubb, and Eric Preputnick. Two very special people deserve thanks also — our advisors, Mrs. Osman and Mrs. Herigan. Thank you for all the hard work you have done and for all the time you have given.

The end of this year marks the beginning of the "real lives" of the Class of '86. While we may never all be together as we were on June 4, 1986, we will always have our memories to cherish and to treasure.

Sincerely,
Jennifer L. Crissman
